Around the School

Morning and evening, these buses carried more than 36.5 per cent of our students to and from their homes. These inanimate objects helped to make our school as large as it is today. In the years to come, buses will still be of a greater need in order to transport the students out to the Southwest Junior High.

Expansion in our school system is the all important item on the school board's agenda. A rapidly increasing population is the major cause for this program. No longer will it be the rural students who are obligated to ride school buses, for now it will also be the urban people going to the outlying schools.

This school year involved a trip too—one of 180 days. It is a journey that was not entirely a pleasure cruise by any means. The seniors would be the first ones to admit this. However, the seniors were not alone on this trip, for while they are completing their term here, apprentices are being trained to move into their recently vacated positions for the coming year.

Between these covers lies the "logbook" of this trip, not only for the seniors, but for the many who are still serving apprenticeships to prepare for the many final senior voyages to be taken in the years to come.

In 180 Days

Through these doors will pass the graduating seniors of 1958. This is not the only group leaving this building, for a large portion of the Junior High will also be leaving for the new Southwest Junior High School. Both groups are closing one door, only to open another—the door to the future.

This past year these doors have been both a medium of education and entertainment. Many times the assemblies presented to us came from within the realm of our own school. Equally there were as many from the professional field. So often these programs were for civic enjoyment as well as for students.

In a sense this auditorium was the beginning and end of our high school career. Six years ago the graduating seniors of this year were sitting in on an orientation program, designed to help them become more familiar with this new situation during their first day of "going uptown" to school.

Now, six years later, with the bulk of the senior class remaining the same, again we find them in the auditorium, but this time for the annual commencement exercises. They have traveled the last portion of the trip, around our school in 180 days.

Faculty and Administration

Striving to make Albert Lea High School a smoothly functioning institution with a high academic record, the faculty and administration spent every day throughout the 180 days improving the school.

The administration was in charge of innumerable functions. Their most important one was to keep the school functioning properly at all times. In addition to this, they kept accurate accounts of attendance, finances of the school and gave counsel to many of the students.

Many teachers not only acted as pedagogues to the students, but also became close friends and counselors. This was probably one of the most important functions of the teachers throughout the year of 1957-58.

Teachers were often the object of much vehemence from the students, but the faculty acted only as score keepers for students after they had taught them the fundamentals of their class. School was not a place for a social gathering, but rather a place to give the students a keen intellect and to prepare them for their future lives. To make every student a good citizen and well-rounded individual was the goal of the faculty.

Superintendent B. H. Hill

Administrators

Our modern world of today with its Sputniks, guided missiles and unrest badly needs educated people who know how to face and accept the responsibilities with which they are faced.

These people must have the skill and proper training to meet the demands of competition. They must be men and women of character who are reliable, co-operative, and interested in experimentation and progress.

Responsibility for the direction of Albert Lea High School so that its students will be able to cope with the problems which will face them rests upon the shoulders of the administration.

Supervision of both maintenance and management of the school provides daily duties for Mr. Beverly H. Hill, superintendent of schools. It is the task of Mr. Hill to coordinate the various functions of the school.

Providing good leadership and direction to both the academic and activity program is the aim of Mr. Louis J. Adolphsen, senior high principal. Mr. Adolphsen works closely with the seniors concerning a further education.

Mr. Vermund Andersen, junior high principal, plans the curriculum and instruction for junior high students as they begin their years of high school. To give them a sound background for subjects they will meet during the coming years is his primary purpose.

Provide for Prosperous Future

Mr. Irvin J. Anderson, who has completed his second year in the Albert Lea School System, serves in the capacity of administrative assistant.

His many duties include taking the school census, supervising all bus transportation and the cafeteria lunch program plus the budgeting and the general finance of the school system.

Although his job consumes much of his time, Mr. Anderson finds time for active membership in Rotary Club and the First Lutheran Church.

Board of education members are as follows: Dr. Leon Steiner, chairman; Mr. Theodore Munson, treasurer; Mrs. Dorothy Hellie, clerk; Dr. Rudolph Gandrud, director; Mr. William Pickavance, director and Dr. Clayton Nelson, director.

Those members most recently elected are Dr. Gandrud and Mr. Pickavance. Mrs. Hellie, the first woman to serve on the board, is completing her fifth year with the group.

The school board meets every second and fourth Tuesday of each month. Its members are elected for terms of three years. Two members come up for election each year thus maintaining a constant level of experience.

Highlighting the past year was the dedication of the J. John Halverson Elementary School and the Clarks Grove Elementary School.

Plans for a southwest junior high school and a southwest elementary school were also completed. These school are expected to be ready for the opening of the 1958-1959 school term.

Besides regular duties which include appointments and monthly bills, the board must also determine the policy of District 241, recently changed from 38 to 241. This year's board has been faced with the problem of purchasing a site for a northside junior high school and also a northside elementary school.

Relieving the administration of some of the monotonous duties of the office work were the seven members of the school office staff. Invaluable to the efficient running of the school offices, these girls worked diligently.

Mrs. Barbara Gillard, secretary, assisted Mr. B. H. Hill. Mrs. Mary Seifert and Miss Anne Reasoner served the school as bookkeeper and assistant bookkeeper, respectively. Fulfilling stenographic duties was the responsibility of Miss Joanne Jaspersen, school stenographer.

Acting as secretary to Mr. Louis Adolphsen, Miss Jennelly Ingvaldson performed various senior high office duties. Miss Leona Mensing, secretary to Mr. Vermund Andersen, supervised all junior high office work. Keeping accurate attendance records was the responsibility of Miss Leone Koester, attendance clerk.

English, History

Why English is required is often asked by many students of high school age. The answer is simply that one of the main requirements of success is the knowledge of English. The goal set for all English classes of high school level was to develop the ability to use English as an effective instrument of expression.

This year one new English teacher was added to the English department. Mrs. Barbara Verdoorn replaced Mr. Wallace Kennedy.

Spelling played a leading part in every English class. Not only were the students drilled on the spelling of the words, but they were also asked to know the pronunciation and the meaning.

This year English was required for all students including the junior journalists. In previous years these students have not been required to take English because of all the experience they gain in writing for the Ah La Ha Sa.

The writing of term papers was a part of both the junior and senior English classes. Sophomores learned their writing techniques in book-reports and short story writing. This prepared them for their future term paper writing.

Although library work was often introduced in the early junior high years it was continued in Senior High. Research papers and book reports required library knowledge.

Create Culture

During the past year the seventh graders attended a semester of reading class which was alternated with a semester of art class.

This course helped those students who were poor in reading gain better habits and helped the better readers become familiar with greater word usage. Mrs. Winifred Lyon taught this very successful class to the students.

Another class added to the Senior High School this year was cultural history, which was offered to the seniors. This class was taught on a college basis and included lecturing, the listening of music and trips. Literature, music and art were the subjects related together during the lecture period. One hour a week of listening to classical music was required for all the students.

Instructors were Mr. Nicholas Cords, music; Mr. Orville Gilmore, literature and Mrs. Patricia Ketterling, art.

These history students had the opportunity to take many trips. They took a trip to the Monet Exhibition at the Minneapolis Institute of Art, "Swan Lake Ballet" in Minneapolis and a play, "The Little Foxes," in Mankato.

Another trip that was taken by the cultural history students was to a Neo-classical play, "The Rivals," at the University of Minnesota.

Seventh graders studied American history in which early New World explorations and the Revolutionary War were covered.

Customs of the people of the Eastern Hemisphere and the procedure of the government were contrasted to those of the United States by the eighth graders in their social studies classes.

Ninth grade classes studied the court system and then enacted mock trials. Choosing two vocations on which they would make a booklet highlighted their interesting study.

By exploring the many different occupations, these ninth graders gained knowledge about the vocation in which they were interested.

History Achieved In Social Studies

World history, required for all sophomores for the first time, acquainted the students with the world's progress from prehistoric times.

United States history was taught to the juniors. Enlightening themselves on the famous explorers and officials, they became more familiar with the development of the United States.

Economics, sociology and American government were the basic elements which comprised the social studies classes for the seniors.

Field trips were taken to places of interest to the classes. Among them were tours of Land 'O Lakes and the Mental Colony in Faribault, where classroom studies became tangible.

Math Established Essential While

LOOKING OVER HER SHOULDER to make sure Linda Harding is doing the assignment correctly is Mrs. Brenaman.

The mathematics program in Junior High consisted of general mathematics and a course in elementary algebra. General mathematics was a required subject in the seventh and eighth grades. This course furnished a review of addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division and worked with fractions. More complicated work problems broadened their knowledge of mathematics and taught them the process of logical thinking and deductive reasoning.

This course aided the students in developing their mathematical ability and it offered them a foundation for further mathematical development in more difficult courses which many of the students plan to take when they enter their senior years. Because of the importance which is being stressed on the field of mathematics, students were given special attention.

World Opposition Rises

Ninth graders preparing for advanced courses in Senior High were encouraged to take elementary algebra, where they were taught the basic fundamentals of higher mathematics which would help them in their future studies of the more complicated mathematical processes.

Senior high training was given in various fields of mathematics. General mathematics was a continuation of the courses taken in Junior High. Mathematics, which can be traced back to the Hindu and Arab tribes, contributed much to the school curriculum during the year.

Plane geometry was offered as an elective subject to all sophomores, however, juniors and seniors also attended the classes. Geometry was of special interest and value to those students who plan to enter further study in engineering.

Juniors who were interested in furthering their mathematical training could enroll in advanced algebra to broaden their knowledge. Solid geometry and plane trigonometry were a challenge to seniors. Included in the study of geometry were the measurements and angles of the circle, rectilinear figures and the study of proportion. One semester was required to complete geometry, and the other semester was used to complete a trigonometry course.

Most colleges require math credits, and the Senior High provided the credits necessary for a college education. All branches of high school mathematics were taught as a basis for college studies. Although there was a difference in the content of the courses offered, there was a similarity in the dealings with higher mathematics and the relationships they all have in common with the rules of mathematics.

Science courses offered in the eighth and ninth grades and Senior High enabled students to better understand the complex world in which they live. A general background is necessary to speak intelligently about earth satellites and missiles which are becoming common words in the English language.

General science courses, required in the eighth and ninth grades, prepared students for the more detailed courses offered in senior high.

Living science was emphasized in the eighth grade as names and structures of living plants and animals were studied. Plants and animals, which included hamsters and an aquarium, were observed. Class demonstrations also added interest to class work. Individual projects, which showed six hours of work, were required for A and B students. A written paper, chart and a model composed the project.

Matter and energy, electricity, heat and light, sound, and simple machines were some of the units covered by the ninth graders.

An interesting addition to the classes was a colored television set, which was borrowed for a week from a local firm. Demonstrations were given and students were given the opportunity to adjust the set, observing the changes in color.

Thirty percent of the ninth graders prepared projects for the Science Fair held in March. Many hours of planning were prerequisites to a well-planned and well-constructed project.

Biology was required for all sophomores thus completing their laboratory science credit necessary for graduation. The study of plant and animal life included a study of their structure.

Collections made by students early in the fall introduced them to insects and leaves native to the area. Leaves were displayed in booklets and insects were preserved and then classified.

Dissection of earthworms and frogs proved to be interesting work. A frog's heart was observed when it was preserved in solution.

Chemistry and physics could be taken in any sequence by juniors and seniors who wanted to further their science background.

Through laboratory experiments, chemistry students observed chemical reactions. Many hours of student participation proved helpful as students studied the physical and chemical properties of elements. The different types of reactions were observed and written in formulas.

Physics, the science of matter, motion and energy, became more familiar as experiments were conducted, manuals were filled in and problems were solved. General physics laws were applied to the study of matter and energy, sound, light, machines and electricity.

With the new emphasis being placed on science courses today, students will find the scientific background helpful to them as they enter the changing world in which they live.

Fine Arts Encourage

Fine arts has become one of the greatest factors in establishing the American culture in our school. Through music and foreign languages, students achieved inherited concepts.

The goal of the French and Spanish classes was not only to learn vocabulary but also to know of the people, their cultural background, the physical features, art, music and literature.

Learning such material was accomplished by drawing maps, listening to records and tapes, giving plays, reading great literary works and observing posters of that country.

Latin classes of the first year course were taught the fundamentals of Latin, Roman stories and vocabulary. To realize the relation between Latin and English and to show how Latin is beneficial was basic in beginning Latin.

Students of the second year Latin learned the more difficult Latin and finished with mythology stories, a Caesar study, and Gaulic wars.

Music began in our high school with a study course in seventh grade where music of every kind from jazz to opera was appreciated. The students were also introduced to instruments.

Orchestra members were given special training through sectional rehearsal and private lessons. Instruction was for the purpose of creating sounds that would bring enjoyment when instruments were combined into an orchestra.

Voices of quality were chosen for the choruses and then trained for performances namely the Christmas and spring concerts.

Band members were trained to almost the point of perfection with sectional rehearsals, private lessons and band practice.

Skills In Many Fields

Art classes and available libraries helped students achieve hobbies, talent and knowledge.

In both of the school libraries students worked toward their objectives by reading for pleasure, reading assignments and discovering the use of planning work and research work. Our libraries proved they were scientific for each was a laboratory for students of all grades.

The junior high library had one special week, March 16-22, which was National Book Week. A book fair highlighted the occasion when new books were on display for students.

English classes gathered at the library every two weeks making the scientific and classical literature available to every junior high student.

For the first time in years, the senior high library held no study halls, making it accessible to students at all times. Library instruction was conducted by the librarian.

Art class for seventh graders was a required subject which enabled them to discover their art talents and then put them to use in one of the many projects throughout the year. Metal tooling, soap sculpture, Christmas card decorating and puppet making were among the activities worked on throughout the year.

Senior high art classes consisted of the tenth, eleventh and twelfth graders whose objective was to acquaint themselves with as many medias as possible through weekly individual projects.

Charcoal, India ink, tempera paint, oil paints, and crayon were a few of the drawing supplies used to bring out the students artistic talents.

To provide homemaking traits that could establish a well organized household, the home economics classes presented a well rounded course of study for future homemakers.

The year's work was divided with one semester developing the sewing abilities and the other producing experienced cooking skills.

Junior high homemakers studied courses of friendship, nutrition, breakfast preparation, sewing machine parts and grooming. Highlighting the seventh graders' year was the tea given for faculty members in the living room.

Broadening the home economy knowledge for senior high girls was attained through sewing projects, home furnishing and serving meals.

Business Emphasizes

Regardless of whether the graduating senior planned to make business his profession or not, those who were enrolled in the business courses were provided with the valuable training that will help them to lead more efficient lives even if they do not continue in the chosen field.

Diversified Occupations Club members received on-the-job training when they were employed at various business places in town and also received payment as they gained first-hand experience. Working part of the day in school, they then journeyed to their places of business.

Valuable experience was accumulated by the student typists as they were taught the basic steps of setting up letters and memorandums. The typists strived for speed and accuracy as they progressed in the knowledge of familiarizing themselves with the standard keyboard of their machines by constant practice.

Brief forms, sounds and letters were taught to secretarial-minded pupils as they were taught the main points of the art of stenography. Students aimed their sights on the goals of accuracy in the usage of strokes and speed of dictation.

Second-year stenography students strived for accuracy in the transcription of their short-hand notes. After taking letters at various speeds, the student was then required to type the letters and make a carbon copy that was mailable.

Accuracy and Speed

Balance sheets, trial balances, ledgers and profit and loss statements became familiar to students in the bookkeeping course offered to juniors and seniors. This course provided valuable experience for those planning to continue their futures in the vocation of figures.

Office practice, offered to seniors, dealt with learning while applying practical knowledge. Filing, the use of the telephone and telegraph services, the operation of the duplication machines, the cutting of stencils and the proper dress for the office worker were included.

Business principles, offered to juniors and seniors, prepared students for occupations connected with law and covered many phases of business such as drawing up contracts and wills.

Business machines concentrated on familiarizing students with the operation of the many unique machines. Among those available were the dictaphone, mimeograph, time clock, comptometer and various hand and electric machines.

Approximately eight weeks were spent on the dictaphone and four weeks were used in learning the operation of the other useful business machines. These machines enabled the users to gain experience about the control of the machines that would be used in the modern offices.

Vocational agriculture was a three year course given to the farm boys who were interested in farming or any of the related vocations. Swine, beef, dairy and sheep were taken up.

In each of these divisions of study, a biological analysis of each animal was undertaken. To show that keeping a clean farm is essential, milk testing was included in the curriculum.

Soil conservation was taught, as was farm management, feeding and managing animals, crop and soil tilling and fertilization.

The boys keep accurate records and farm accounts as part of the course on management. These were checked by the instructors.

Other very important sections of the training were a study of animals, home projects and crops grown on the individual farms.

As a supplement to the vocational agriculture course, the boys joined the Future Farmers of America, a national organization of farm youth.

Through the FFA the boys showed their skills with crop raising and animal showmanship at animal and crop shows. They won awards at the county and state fairs and at other local, state and national shows for farm youth.

Giving boys the practical experience that is necessary to fit them into their individual needs is the purpose of the shop classes.

These shop classes are carried out in a program, starting in the seventh grade and working up through the grades. The program is geared to increase the student's knowledge and abilities in the fields covered by each year's courses. The courses covered are widely varied.

Vocational opportunities to be derived from the shop classes are numerous. The students gained technical experience and knowledge.

The seventh grade course included basic electricity and general metals. Basic electricity taught the students important facts about motors, generators and radios. They also worked on uncomplicated electrical projects. Basic fundamentals were taught in the metals course.

The eighth grade shop course was divided into three separate divisions. Eighteen weeks of the year were devoted to the study of materials and wood working, twelve weeks were spent on mechanical drawing and during the last six weeks a study of plastics was made.

Also divided was the ninth grade shop program. One semester was spent learning the prime factors concerning mechanical drawing. The remaining semester was taken up by wood working on projects varying from simple lamps to lawn chairs.

Sophomores, in a one semester course in machine shop, learned to operate such machines as lathes and drills. Juniors and seniors maintained old skills and acquired new ones in their three-hour class during each day.

Blue print drawing and reading and electrical and mechanical drawing were skills acquired by the eleventh grade drafting classes. Twelfth graders were concerned with architectural drawing. To learn to live within a budget was the reason for designing a home.

Four main subjects were covered in the aerodynamics class for juniors and seniors. They are aerodynamics, meteorology, navigation and regulations. The course covers the same things as a professional aviation school.

KEEPING A CLOSE EYE on Julius Peterson, one of the many janitors, is Martin Jordahl, Supt. of Building and Grounds.

Efficiency was the motto of the maintenance staff of the junior and senior high school. Maintaining the school's heating system as well as everything from sweeping floors to fixing broken equipment was the job of the diligent janitors.

Some of their specific daily duties are sweeping floors, cleaning blackboards, emptying waste paper baskets, straightening desks and chairs and picking up after busy students.

Students also called upon these men for personal favors too. They frequently requested the maintenance staff to repair broken lockers to clean up spilled ink and other mishaps.

These men helped to maintain a clean and healthy place for the student body and provided efficient school upkeep throughout the year.

During the summer, Christmas and spring vacations, an extensive campaign of cleaning and redecorating halls and classrooms by painting and varnishing walls, ceilings, woodwork and floors was carried on by this staff.

All the members of the maintenance staff worked together diligently to promote an efficiently run school sparkling with cleanliness which would make each student proud of his high school in order to keep it as such.

Cafeteria Staff Furnishes Nutrition

Feeding hungry students and faculty members was the important job of the cafeteria staff. They prepared well-balanced meals each day of the week that were nourishing yet inexpensive.

Three appetizing meals were served each day of the week to students purchasing their hot lunch in the high school cafeteria during the noon hour. Cora Torgerson, manager, with her many assistants not only fed the junior high at 11:30 a.m. and the senior high at 12:30 p.m., but they provided lunches for Lincoln School.

All meals were planned well in advance and a list was made public to the students through The Tribune. These meals include hot dishes, soups, potatoes and meats, sandwiches, milk and desserts for a minimum fee of 25 cents.

This year since the new cafeteria study hall was added, these women also cleaned the study hall desks and chairs immediately following the hour so that the study hall was ready for action.

These women were always ready with a smile as they worked for the students just as many other staffs do for betterment of the school.

WAYNE INDRELIE AND BILL KING are shown in a typical pose as they prepare to wash the many dishes returned after lunch.

"PLEASE GIVE ME A PASS" is the urgent cry of Pete Jacobs as he begs Mr. Reige and Miss Anderson for a pass.

Guidance Directed

Students seeking help with personal and vocational problems were greeted by a new senior high counselors' office this year. Room 107 was divided into three cubicles, each containing two desks for each of the respective class advisers, and a universal reception room. A decidedly new feature was the addition of a telephone to each of the individual conference rooms.

The Guidance Council was composed of two teachers for each of three grades. Miss Florence Schottler, senior girls; Mr. Egil Hovey, senior boys; Miss Gertrude Piers, junior girls; Mr. Stanley Middlestadt, junior boys; Miss Anne Anderson, sophomore girls; and Mr. Robert Riege, sophomore boys, comprised the advisory committee for the senior high system.

College Day, sponsored by the council, was held again this year to enable interested students to confer with representatives from their favorite college or university.

Seniors found this office to be especially valuable in the selection of a school of higher learning or in choosing a trade school.

WRITING ABSENCE SLIPS and checking ratings are Mr. Middlestadt and Miss Piers, as Kathy Olson waits for hers.

MARILYN STEVENS attempts to choose a college as Mr. Hovey and Miss Schottler try to interest her in several different ones.

In Various Fields

Because of the Asiatic flu epidemic this fall, the nurses' office was an unusually busy terminal. However, efficiency and kindness were the guide-words as Mrs. Helen Sund and Miss Betty Skaff, the school nurses, ably completed their tasks. This office was a vital organ in keeping the school functioning well.

Their regular office duties included issuing admittance passes for junior high, giving eye and ear examinations and treating students who became ill or injured at school.

Drivers training was one of the mediums used to prepare students for their roles as capable citizens. This program consisted of a nine-week classroom course in rules of the road and in the mechanical workings of the motor and 20 hours of actual driving experience.

The behind-the-wheel training was offered to the students by competent and experienced teachers. Cars equipped with dual controls were loaned by local automobile dealers for the students' use. Those students wishing to try for their license were given the opportunity.

DEPICTING HOW TO DRIVE a car on the busy roads are Connie Morris and Larry Sorby, two drivers training students.

TELEPHONING AND FILING are only a few of the various tasks of Marlys Ellingson and Cecilia Luna, as they help the nurses.

A TYPICAL DAY'S work is portrayed by Mrs. Inga Brenaman, Miss Betty Skaff and Mrs. Helen Sund as they issue admits and check records.

Classes

To improve their school and gain new knowledge through the many courses, classes worked avidly throughout the 180 days. Their many class projects and scholastic endeavors gave rich rewards to the hard working students.

Six years in high school gave the individuals the chance to find their place in life and obtain the intelligence to meet the challenges of their new and complex life after graduation. Such fundamentals as English, science, social studies, mathematics, foreign languages and the fine arts were the stepping stones to this new life.

Subjects relating to intellect were taught; students also gained valuable experience in coping with the problems of their future life. Life is a series of conquests and disappointments, happiness and woe. The various classes through contact with their classmates learned to accept their disappointments and successes with humility, while still maintaining pride and sincerity.

Acquainting themselves with the basic rules and taboos of society was another sought after accomplishment of the classes. Being able to get along with humanity is one of the basic needs of this world. This development of our character was accomplished through contact with the other members of this school, from getting along with our pedagogues and through the academic work of the school.

WORKING HARD FOR THE betterment of the school, the executive committee organized and helped to operate many of the years functions. Part of the committee are seen here. SEATED: Pete Hoffman, Darleen Olson and Jane Schoenrock. STANDING: Bob Gunderson, Tom Brooke, Carol Raimor, Pat Heather and Jirah McCornack.

We, the Seniors of '58, Striving

LOOKING FORWARD TO GRADUATION, Ronald Olsen and Sharon Hubbell have a pre-graduation fitting. Somewhere along the line some one has had a little mix-up and they seem to have gotten the wrong robes. All and all, it was worth it, even though it does mean pressing the robes and getting an admit from the office for class.

Working to bring the senior class to a closer unity, the Senior Breakfast, their first big project, was held on November 26. This broke the old tradition of holding it at Christmas time, but all felt that the new change was both welcome and successful. Opening speeches were presented by the Class President Peter Hoffman, Principal Louis J. Adolphsen, Superintendent of Schools B. H. Hill and the Rev. Melford Knutson. Included in the program were readings and vocal and piano numbers by members of the class. The breakfast was brought to a close by a group sing led by Mr. Robert Myers.

Career Day, held December 5, helped many seniors decide the all-important question of what colleges to attend in order to further their education.

Learning to work with others, through cooperation and understanding, was gained through participation in the various service clubs such as Hi-Teens, Ushers Club, Red Cross, Honor Society and Audio-Visual. Experience in leadership was derived from membership in Student Council and the Senior Executive Council which represented their classmates.

Musical-minded students, and there were many, worked harmoniously through band, chorus and orchestra. For the tenth consecutive year a select group was chosen by Mr. Myers to serve the school and community by singing in Madrigal.

An inspiration to all was the beautiful and solemn Baccalaureate Service held on June 1, but the big moment in the lives of all seniors arrived at last with the receiving of their diplomas on June 6.

OUR SENIOR YEAR HAS BEEN a busy one, with all of our outside activities, our work around the house and at our jobs, but the homework seems to be the biggest problem for Vivian Unseth as she is loading up for the nightly trip home. Julie Nash seems to think it's all crazy but after deep consideration, she also loads up.

WORKING FOR THE PERFECTION of the Ah La Ha Sa, Alton Bushman and Betty Kofstad correct page proofs and galleys as they come in from Trades. This is but the first of many to come. A well run and organized paper is the basic foundation for the high ratings that your school receives each year from a national and state viewpoint.

Our School

School recessed at 3 P.M. for most students. However, light could usually be seen late at night in many rooms where some students were putting in extra time perfecting their lines for a play, practicing a number for a dance the next Friday night or finishing a backdrop.

These students were the ones who in addition to maintaining a high scholastic record put forth a little extra effort to see each project through.

Selected by a faculty committee, they devoted their time and talents to music, dramatics, art, sports, journalism and many other worthwhile organizations.

They were judged on the quality as well as the quantity of the service they rendered to their school and their community during senior high.

This was not a one way proposition, however. Learning to accept responsibility helped them to build strong character, personality and self-confidence as they helped to lead their classmates through their high school years. As they led the school, so they will lead the adult world which they will enter after commencement.

These outstanding students of the class of 1958 were the ones that made the difference around the school.

"SORRY, NO MONEY, no admittance," says John Meissenhalter to moneyless Merlyn Hartzler, as Virginia Harris buys her ticket from Marlene Hunnicutt and Annette Hammer watches. This dance was one of the fund-raising prom projects undertaken by the juniors.

Anxiously anticipating their first prom, junior class members, under the supervision of the prom committee chairmen, worked long and diligently to complete all the preparations. Determined to make it the best prom ever, juniors raised the necessary finances by selling school stationery which was decorated with a tiger in the left hand corner, sponsoring concessions at two school dances and collecting class dues.

"Surf and Shadows" was the theme which was carried out. Following the buffet supper in the cafeteria, seniors and juniors danced to Guy DeLeo's Orchestra.

Because of the success of the Kiwanis program last year, Kiwanis representatives were again chosen by a faculty committee to attend the weekly Kiwanis meetings and to report the past and future activities of the school.

Arrival of class rings was an important day in the lives of the juniors. After much discussion, the class finally chose a 10 carat gold ring with a raised insignia from the samples of rings selected by the class officers.

Class co-ordinators, Mrs. Barbara Verdoorn and Mr. Nicholas Cords, and the class counselors, Miss Gertrude Piers and Mr. Stanley Mittelstadt proved very helpful as they patiently counseled the juniors and guided them.

Lowerclassmen Discover Solutions

Endeavoring to maintain the high standards set in lower grades, the sophomores entered senior high doors with exciting hopes for an enjoyable and profitable future. New subjects, new teachers and new friends were bewildering to the newcomers at first, but they quickly overcame their hesitation and performed their tasks.

Class elections were the first big project in the year. After a vigorous campaign, Steve Schwartz, David Olson, Judy Vig and Carol Rasmussen became the class officers.

As president, it was Steve's duty to call all class meetings and preside over them. Deciding rules of parliamentary procedure and counting votes were also part of his job. Assisting Steve as vice president was David Olson, who took charge of meetings in the absence of the president and who was also in charge of programs.

Secretary Judy spent much of her time taking down the minutes of the class meetings and handling correspondence, while Treasurer Carol handled finances.

to Problems of Senior High Life

Dancing to the entrancing music of the Swing Band, girls in every sort of party dress from frothy net to stiff taffeta, and handsome, suit-clad boys enjoyed the traditional Sophomore Party which was held on April 11. Many-hued decorations carried out the chosen theme, while an entertaining program, with Steve Schwartz, class president, as master of ceremonies, and a delicious lunch helped make the evening a memorable one. The party was planned by the various committee chairmen with Miss Alice Gammel, class adviser, assisting.

Being new members of Senior High, the sophomores were enthusiastic participants in all activities. Many energetic boys participated in sports, while the girls found new friends in Hi-Teens. Finding themselves closer to that all-important goal of graduation and realizing a sense of belonging, the sophomores succeeded in giving much to the school. After an eventful year, they can look back on many good times with a true sense of accomplishment that their first year of Senior High was a success in every possible way.

Ninth Grade Party Highlights Year

A hushed stillness swept over the ninth graders as Gervaise "Skip" Wilhelm and Mike Morrison were heralded as the King and Queen of Hearts at the ninth grade party. A fitting climax was the musical tribute by a quartet and the marimba solo.

After the coronation, the students were invited to attend the royal ball where red and white streamers draped the ceiling to depict the theme "February Fantasy." Those not wishing to attend the dance viewed a movie in the auditorium.

Upperclassmen Display Leadership

Elected to serve the needs of the Junior High were council officers Steve Claybourn, president; Roger Christenson, vice president; Linde Ille, secretary; and Terry Cotton, treasurer. Mr. Georges Denzene served as adviser to the group.

Activities during the year for the Student Council included the field trips to Minneapolis to study Minnesota's government, arranging socials, putting into effect the New Code of Conduct and the Have-a-Heart drive which obtained donations for the United Fund.

As ninth graders, their programs required English, social studies, science and physical education with a choice between general mathematics and algebra. They had their first opportunity to select an elective subject which they felt would benefit them the most in the vocation they will follow. These choices included art, home economics, band, orchestra, industrial arts, Latin and Spanish to make a complete schedule.

Added to the ninth grade faculty was Mr. Richard Hart who taught general mathematics.

Officers for the year were Sandra Hanson, president; Karen Hill, vice president; Myreen Gavle, secretary and Martha Sherman, treasurer. Adviser for the group was Miss Norma Jean Robson.

The boys should be given credit for the effort exerted.

REHEARSING FOR THEIR ANNUAL TALENT SHOW, Roger Christenson, Lois Hassberg, Mary Keil, Terry Sorenson and Mary Gilbertson display their talents.

Junior High Students Present

The Junior High Talent Show, held during January, provided a variety of entertainment for the junior high students. Acts were chosen from seventh, eighth and ninth grades. Directed by Mr. Robert Myers, the production added excitement to the year for all junior high students, whether they had an active part in the production or were members of the audience.

Highlighting the year for all eighth graders was the Eighth Grade Party, which was held in February. Students will long remember the music, dancing and entertainment which they enjoyed so much at this party which has become an annual event.

Chorus, a popular extra-curricular activity under the direction of Mr. Robert Myers, added much beauty and entertainment to the year's festive occasions.

Band and orchestra, under the guidance of Mr. L. J. Emmons and Mr. Lester Striener, gave pleasure to the entire Junior High School and developed each member's musical talents. This year's group was one of the largest junior high choruses in the history of the school.

Albert Lea's music program is one of the best offered in southern Minnesota, and the many junior high students enrolled took full advantage of it. Many of the junior high chorus members will continue their music interests throughout high school, working their way up to A chorus and Madrigal.

Versatile Talent in Annual Show

Preparing to take over their duties as leaders of the Junior High, the middleclassmen engaged in a curriculum designed to benefit them in developing both personal attitudes and educational interests. Many junior high students contributed to the honor roll by having B averages or better.

Eighth graders were required to take English, social studies, mathematics and science because abilities in these fields are so important for their future progress. Physical education was required twice a week just as in the past years. Selective subjects offered were home economics, wood shop, band and orchestra.

Lack of room in classes and in the halls was a problem in junior high as in the rest of the school, only to be solved by the new school which is now being completed to accommodate the students. This year brought a crowd of approximately 1,148 students to Junior High. Although the room shortage has caused a problem, students and faculty did an excellent job with what they had to work with during the year.

The eighth grade was governed by a student council combined with seventh grade. The council met once a week to discuss some of the school's problems and to suggest how they could help the problems which now exist to be solved. The main topic of discussion throughout the year was how they could benefit themselves and the Junior High School.

AS MISS ELIZABETH KAHLE points out the world's interesting spots, three interested seventh graders strive to learn about today's modern world.

New Time Block Primes Students

As seventh graders entered a whole new school environment, they found that many new subjects were offered. English, physical education, social studies, mathematics, homemaking, shop, band, orchestra and chorus formed a basis for their future.

As the newness of the building and schedules wore off, the pupils gradually began to adjust themselves to the crowded conditions. Many new problems in the seventh grade were solved with the help of teachers.

There were also several new teachers who were added to the junior high faculty. One newcomer was Miss Lorretta Banovetz, who taught an hour of seventh grade homemaking as well as eleventh grade homemaking. Seventh grade mathematics teachers were relieved of some of their duties with the help of Mr. Orvis Rake, who taught ninth grade algebra. Miss Norma Robson arrived as the new junior high physical education teacher. Miss Patricia Skarshaug taught seventh grade art while Mr. William Stock taught seventh grade math and shop.

in Language, Social Fundamentals

Aimed at teaching the fundamentals of living and working together, the new Block of Time was introduced in the seventh grade. A definite attempt was made to help the students feel more secure.

The pupils spent two hours a day with a teacher for one half of the year, and during the other half of the year, the same pupil and teacher would spend three hours a day with each other. This taught constructive school discipline and control to the students.

Another new course offered for the first time this year was a course in which voluntary students could acquire skill in reading. Taught by Mrs. Winifred Lyon, the students learned basic sight reading, vocabulary, comprehension and became familiar with consonant and vowel sounds and blends.

Graphs were kept to show weekly improvement and books were read about the students' particular interests.

Seventh Graders Show Initiative

Under the leadership of Miss Millie Holm, eighth grade mathematics teacher, the members of the Service Club were given a chance to earn special points as they assisted teachers by correcting daily papers and doing other duties. Thus, the teachers had more time to give individual help and attention.

Taking, developing and enlarging pictures was the main objective of the Photography Club. Under the direction of Mr. Russell Harding, the members also did other special projects such as making Christmas cards.

Filling gift boxes for unfortunate children in different lands was the main assignment of the volunteer members of the Junior Red Cross. Directed by Miss Mary Lehrer, they filled a scrapbook which they sent to a foreign country showing the activities of the American citizens. Letters were also written to foreign students.

The main highlight of the seventh grade class was their talent show held in February. It was under the direction of Miss Mary Mettam, seventh grade counselor.

in Carrying Out School Obligations

Meeting every Monday after school in Room 114, the Chess Club progressed under the guidance of Mr. Georges Denzene, eighth grade social studies teacher. Consisting of students in the seventh, eighth and ninth grades, they learned the rules and regulations of the art of the chess game. Dues were paid each month to help finance the expenses of the club. Prizes were awarded to the winners of various tournaments. Officers elected for the past year were Roger Christenson, president and Roger Peterson, treasurer.

Striving to live up to the name that has come from the success of previous years, the Science Club had another full and exciting schedule. Assisted by Mr. Robert Entorf and Mr. Phillip Klein, the Science Club, a member of the Junior Academy of Science, again sponsored the annual Science Fair at the high school to exhibit the projects that had been made.

Field trips and other interesting trips were also taken to fulfill another year of fun and knowledge that is so important to the modern world of today.

Organizations

In addition to the classes, the organizations proved the most valuable source of knowledge for high school life. Organizations of almost every type were open to all students.

There were clubs devoted to service for the school and community such as Red Cross and Ushers Club. Organizations like Rifle Club, FFA, Chess Club and FHA afforded students an outlet for their special talents. Journalism and Drama proved the first step in a vocation for many interested individuals. Still other organizations such as National Honor Society brought distinction and recognition for the participants.

An organization continually working towards a better school was Student Council who carried out various projects to improve the school. Besides these endeavors, the Council also served as a sponsor for many clubs and activities.

Often times a student was interested only in the glory of an organization and did not work to support the activity. This cannot be done; for only through an avid interest of all members may a club be worthwhile. However, many members supported their organizations wholeheartedly, thus making the year truly successful.

'57-'58 Council

GUIDING THE STUDENT COUNCIL throughout the year are executive officers: Karen Jorgenson, treasurer; Michael Gaetze, vice president; Paul Nesheim, president and Barbara Lee, secretary.

"EVEN THE NEW EDESEL must be driven carefully," Darleen Olson tells her fellow traffic and safety committee members, Carol Gilpin, Roger Villarreal, Janice Johnson and Jim Krieger, who did their best to emphasize traffic safety.

WHO WILL RECEIVE THE OSCAR is the primary concern of the Oscar committee: Julie Argue, Marcia Uttley, Jerry Fredrickson, Ronald Dahlen, Mark Knutson and Merald Nesje. Robert Hershey, parliamentarian, oversees council procedure.

The Senior High Student Council met weekly, under the guidance of Mr. William Standly, to project the attributes of good citizenship, service and character into its members. Representatives were not only equipped with the tools for constructing a workable governing nucleus for the student body, but they also handled all major school projects.

All activities carried on by the Student Council were delegated to the various standing committees. The functioning groups were election, to supervise elections; Oscar, to recommend nominees; social, to schedule dances; traffic and safety, to oversee the halls; finance, to plan a budget and assembly, to set up the programs for the coming year. When the need arose, a special committee was appointed to fill the situation.

Clubs chartered under Student Council were Lettermen's Club, Cheerleaders, Swing Band, Ushers Club, Rifle Club and Pep Club. In addition to being financed by the Student Council, they were also able to send representatives to the meetings.

Retain Standards Set in the Past

To plan the annual Homecoming Festivities was the first major project undertaken by the Student Council. Tradition was broken as the number of Homecoming queen candidates was changed from five to seven. Spirited student using the theme "Can the Birds" labored to make all homecoming activities successes.

To brighten Christmas for the patients at the Gillette State Hospital for Crippled Children in St. Paul, the Student Council sponsored a charity tree. Bulbs to decorate the tree sold for fifteen, twenty-five and fifty cents.

Cited as the number one money-making project of the Student Council, the ninth annual 'Tigers' Roar, Bon Voyage, under the supervision of Mrs. Barbara Verdoorn, was presented January 24, 25 and 27.

In cooperation with the Youth Council, the Winter Carnival took place during Christmas vacation. Another first for this year's Student Council was the establishment of an ethics committee for the counseling of students.

The summer before they took office, the officers gained valuable knowledge as they represented Albert Lea Senior High School. Paul Nesheim attended Boys' State, Michael Gaetze, the Minnesota Convention, Barbara Lee, Girls' State, and Karen Jorgenson, the National Student Council Leadership Conference held in Estes Park.

TAKING CHARGE OF MAKING and distributing posters were the tasks of the publicity committee, Phyllis Gunderson, chairman, Dick Core, Fred Jones, Dave Skogheim and Nancy Lee.

MAKING ARRANGEMENTS AND SCHEDULING ASSEMBLIES was the job of Paul Hill, Jim Glesne and Gary Myran, chairman of the assembly committee.

RESULTS OF THE student council officers elections are being examined by the elections committee, Dave Reynen, Al Bushman and Sue LeBeau, chairman.

Esteem Through Numerous Projects

Highlighting the Junior High Student Council's activities this year was the Winter Carnival. Tobogganing, hockey and ice skating contests were the main forms of recreation during this week of fun. Climaxing the Winter Carnival was the coronation of the Prince and Princess of Snows, Jay Hutchins and Jean Lunning, following a dance at the Eagles' Hall.

During the year numerous projects were ambitiously worked on and carried out. Among the many accomplishments was the Have-A-Heart campaign. The council encouraged everyone to give generously by conducting a contest between the various homerooms and presenting an award to the homeroom in each grade that contributed the most money. Proceeds were distributed to numerous worthy charities.

Other successful projects were acting as guides for the Back-to-School Night for parents, operating a lost and found department, taking announcements to classes that had no loud speakers, decorating the Christmas trees and taking them down again, placing wastebaskets in the corridors and sponsoring a ninth grade social.

Council members were elected for a term of one semester. Because of the large number of members, seventh and eighth graders met at a different time than the ninth graders to accommodate all.

To become officers of the council, ninth grade students conducted extensive campaigns in the fall.

A Chorus Aimed for Quality,

Working under somewhat crowded conditions, more than 190 A Chorus members prepared for their various appearances with their director, Mr. Robert L. Myers. In the fall the chorus sang the traditional "La Czarine" at the Homecoming Coronation Program, and they also sang at the Junior High Thanksgiving Assembly.

With Christmas nearing they worked for perfection and memorized songs for the annual Christmas Concert. The Chorus repertoire consisted of both serious and reverent music and light songs in the Christmas spirit. The group sang for the annual combined service clubs' meeting at the Hotel Albert. The two performances of the Christmas candlelight program received loud approval from students, alumni and parents.

Perfection Throughout Busy Year

After the holiday season the group began working on music for the Spring Concert. They also anxiously awaited the Big Nine Music Festival at Owatonna. There they participated in the mass chorus as well as in a separate concert which included selections they had sung throughout the year.

One of the highlights of the year was the bi-annual trip which they took to Minneapolis in May.

Members of the A Chorus not only received vocal and musical training which they will carry with them to enrich their lives in later years, but they also learned the discipline that is necessary for working in a large group.

Soloists with the group were Rose Marie Faltus, Elizabeth Johnsrud, Judith Myers and Dave Jenson.

A CHORUS MEMBERS were checked on parts before the group departed to Wayzata where they gave a concert.

"LATE AS USUAL" was the cry from the group that greeted these breathless Madrigal members: Ronald Matthies, Jo Anne Sether, Mark Knutson and Eloise Ellson.

WARMING UP before a concert were these B Chorus members: Judith Johnsrud, Joan Schneider, Peggy Cairns, Marilyn Stoa and Rebecca Boyd.

Madrigal Observes Tenth Year

SURPRISE CAPTURED Robert Myers' face at the tenth anniversary surprise party as the lights went on and revealed the alumni who sang with the Madrigal Singers while in high school.

"One of the busiest seasons ever" aptly describes this year's Madrigal Singers. Under the direction of Mr. Robert Myers, this group of 49 members was selected by tryout from the A Chorus.

During the Christmas season the Madrigals performed for the service clubs, many church organizations and participated in the annual Christmas Concert. Featured in these appearances were the "Nutcracker Suite", "The Sleigh" and "Mr. Santa", a novelty tune which ended all of the engagements. "Hodie Christus Natus Est" was another outstanding number sung by the Madrigals, who served as a nucleus for the A Chorus.

Mr. Myers was honored at a surprise party to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the Madrigal Singers on December 30 in Bethany Hall of the First Lutheran Church. Attending were past and present members from the last ten years. Among those present were some of the first soloists and accompanists coming from as far as Boston, Massachusetts, Saint Louis, Missouri and Florida in order to take part in the gay festivities.

During the party a program was presented featuring songs by past members. Afterwards, Mr. Myers led everyone in group singing of familiar songs which ended the memorable evening.

Freshmen Show Promising Talent

During their first experience in singing in a mixed, four-part choral group, ninth graders accomplished much musically. They were training in preparation for the coming years when they hope to participate in senior high vocal groups. The ninth grade singers were divided into two groups, numbering over 100 each, which met on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Their first performance together was at the annual Christmas Concert where they helped to open the candle-light procession with the singing of several Christmas carols. As is the tradition, the ninth chorus, dressed in white shirts and blouses and dark skirts and trousers, were seated in the balcony where they performed. In the program, they sang "O Holy Night" and "All Ye Good People" with Norma Stephens as soloist.

The group gave their own program for a special Junior High Christmas Assembly. Here they sang other Christmas carols and Myrna Nelson accompanied the group on the marimba during the singing of "Silent Night."

DISTRIBUTING BOOKS before class was the task of Roger Christian-son and Gary Walker with the "help" of two kibitzers, James Groos and Frank Ostby.

During the year the group drilled to gain musical skills which they would need to gain perfection. They sang many folk songs and old favorites out of the "thin blue" and the "thick blue" song books. Such songs as "This Is My Country," "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" and numerous spirituals became favorites.

Some of the selections that they diligently practiced as the year drew to a close were "The Happy Wanderer," "Old King Crow," "The Erie Canal" and "La Paloma."

In the spring the chorus gave a choral concert at a junior high assembly. In May they participated in the Spring Concert. After each of the various choral groups had performed individually, they combined with the other choruses to sing the closing songs.

Meanwhile, plans were being made as to the fate of this group for the time when the new junior high will be opened. With memories of their junior high chorus activities tucked away, these ninth graders prepared to assume the duties of the senior high choruses.

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT was the motto of Norma Stephens, Myrna Nelson, Mary Gilbertson and Sharon Kurth, ninth grade soloists and accompanists.

Senior Band Attains Higher Goals

HELPING EACH OTHER with fitting the uniforms that they will wear throughout the year are the 1957-58 band officers. Anne Esse, secretary; Roger Berg, president; Sally Olsen, vice president and Jim Blackburn, librarian.

With the mounting of the director to the podium, heralding trumpets pierce the silence, drums roll, cymbals clash and the band begins its repertoire. Both student body and community audiences recall this familiar scene as the Senior High School Band presented numerous concerts in the auditorium.

The band proved itself an asset to the community as well as the school when playing for the Freeborn County Fair and participating in numerous city parades.

Highlighting their summer engagements, the band won first place in the High School Marching Division at the evening illuminated Aquatennial Parade in Minneapolis. Second place honors in the same division of the entire Aquatennial Week were also awarded to the band for their achievements.

Adding his talents to the versatility of the band, Don L. Sorenson, a graduate of Albert Lea High School, planned a complete program of intricate marching maneuvers. This program, "California Caravan," consisting of various formations representing a cross-country tour of several states, was presented by the band during the half-time of a football game. Homecoming also found the band on hand to entertain the spectators with high-stepping maneuvers and familiar strains.

In Marching and Concert Reviews

Striving toward perfection both in their playing techniques and marching maneuvers, the band, under the direction of Mr. L. J. Emmons, could be seen and heard practicing first hour each day.

Pep assemblies and basketball contests claimed the talents of a small pep band composed of select musicians. Some students formed a sax quartet and a brass sextet which were called upon to appear at various occasions.

Hours of practice were rewarded on the memorable occasion of the Big Nine Music Festival held in Owatonna. Select members also participated in the All-Conference Band and Orchestra. The annual Spring Concert held on April 30, climaxed the band's appearances during the regular school year.

A program of specialized marches and exhibitions, still in the planning stage, is being drawn up by Don and Mr. Emmons. The band will present this program in honor of Minnesota's Centennial Celebration sometime during the summer.

Taking over the duties of president and vice-president of the band during the 1957-58 were Roger Berg and Sally Olsen, respectively. Assisting Mr. Emmons with the filing of music was the secretary, Anne Esse.

FOUR BOYS with a lot of "sax appeal" who are always ready to demonstrate on short notice are these members of the senior band quartet: David Jordahl, David Olson, Dale Olsen and Jim Blackburn.

PRACTICING TO PERFECT new musical selections are these members of the flute quartet: Karen Meixell, Andrea Rutherford, Mary Niebuhr and Janice Morreim.

Preparing themselves for entrance into Senior Band, the Junior Band diligently practiced every day during the third hour. Because the enrollment has risen greatly within the last few years, the band room is getting quite crowded. These enthusiastic members overlooked this, however, and strived to do their very best.

Also, to help improve the members Mr. L. J. Emmons took the time to give each person an individual lesson. These lessons inspired them to practice more.

During the summer the band saw action when they marched in a parade for the recreation department.

Continuing a previous tradition, the Junior Band played before the afternoon grandstand at the Freeborn County Fair. Later in the same day, they played a concert which was thoroughly enjoyed by the old settlers.

Another tradition kept by the band was the Kiwanis Peanut Parade, which was held after school started.

Marching down the street to various marching numbers, they brightened the Homecoming Parade by their slick white uniforms. This was thrilling to the junior highs and also proved to be excellent experience.

To open school properly, the Junior High Band gave a short concert in which their talents were displayed.

Another concert was presented before the Junior High School early in December. By doing this, they displayed their many accomplishments within a few months.

Both overtures and light numbers were played. Among them were the "Albanian March," "Morning Papers," "Martha Overture" and "Challenger."

Many soloists developed during the course of the year. Alice Thompson played a clarinet solo entitled "Pepperino" and Bruce Waterman played "Neopolitan Nights." Ray Hurst played a horn solo, "Andante." A flute quartette was also discovered—Andrea Rutherford, Mary Niebuhr, Janice Morreim and Karen Meixell who played "French Clock."

Early in the year, band members began practicing for the annual Spring Concert which was held in April. Proving their worth, the band members memorized their entire concert. This involves many hours of practicing. It takes a qualified person to memorize several songs.

By memorizing numbers, a certain rivalry is developed, and everyone works harder to defend his position.

Compose Sr. High Orchestra Year

Under the capable direction of Mr. Lester Strierner, members of the Senior High School Orchestra practiced diligently to perfect the playing of the compositions they presented at their numerous appearances.

Presenting a senior high assembly, the orchestra delighted the students with renditions in several veins of music. A similar performance brought enjoyment to Rotary members when the orchestra presented a concert for them at one of their March meetings.

The orchestra toured to Janesville, Minnesota, and Mankato State College on February 11 and presented their repertoire to various audiences. After much practice, the annual public Orchestra Concert was given on February 25 in the auditorium.

The Big Nine Music Festival presented another challenge to the musicians when they traveled to Owatonna on May 2 to participate in the select orchestra as well as the other events.

A special string orchestra made up of select members provided background music for various community groups throughout the year.

All the dramatic productions as well as at two Honor Society Initiations claimed the services of the orchestra. Just the right touch was added by the orchestra at the baccalaureate and graduation ceremonies, which concluded the year for the instrumentalists.

Due to crowded conditions within the school, the Presbyterian Church became the site of rehearsals for the Senior High Orchestra during the last half of the year.

LITTLE BOP RIDING HOOD is the subject of interest here. Edmund Nelson plays while Mr. Adolphsen narrates and Jean Scherb and Bob Kaufmann watch the procedure in wonderment.

Junior High Orchestra Maintains

SOLOIST MARLINE MINEAR RENDERS a joyful number on her violin at a school assembly. Appearances, such as these, are promoted for students to gain confidence.

Completing a successful year after two year on trial, the Junior High Orchestra looked forward to a bright future under the direction of Mr. Lester Streimer.

Consisting of 43 strings and 17 brass instruments, the orchestra appeared many times throughout the year.

In October the orchestra presented a school assembly to the junior high students. Many instrumentals, as well as novelty numbers were rendered by the members.

The Junior High Orchestra played in the annual concert on February 25. In the spring they traveled to Hayward to play for the PTA. To conclude the year the orchestra held another junior high assembly in May.

This past year, for the first time in 75 years the orchestra had a private room. In January, it moved to the basement of the Presbyterian Church. Up until that time, the orchestra had been pushed between the cafeteria and the auditorium. Plans are in process for an Orchestra Hall on the third floor of Junior High.

GETTING TOGETHER FOR a "jam session" are these jazz enthusiasts—SEATED: Roger Berg and Bob Hershey. STANDING: Robert Anderson, David Hanson, Don Tasker, Conrad Wangen and David Olson.

Under the direction of student leader, Roger Berg, the Swing Band introduced progressive jazz to the high school. Styled after the famed Stan Kenton band, the Swing Band had in its repertoire such numbers as "Artistry Jumps," their theme song, "Intermission Riff," "Dynaflow," "Peanut Vendor" and "Night Train."

With the use of progressive jazz, the members had many opportunities for solos. Dale Olsen's improvisations had the touch that made the band sound very capable and very professional.

Jerry Felle, during his six week stay as a music practice teacher, helped the band in interpreting the difficult big band arrangements.

Using five trumpets, five trombones and five saxes, the band was the largest the school has ever had.

The trumpet parts were played by Bob Hershey, David Hanson, Conrad Wangen, Tom Dahl and Paul Hill. Making up the trombone section were Sven Mattson, David Johnson, Donald Tasker, Del Bosacker and Frank Ruerup.

The sax section was comprised of Dale Olsen, James Blackburn, David Olson, Robert Anderson and David Jordahl. Roger Berg, piano; Paul Johnson, bass and Keith Stiles, drums, composed the rhythm section.

Practicing without an adviser most of the time, the band worked long, hard hours in preparation for a dance or some other activity for which they played.

Jazz Fans With Modern Stylings

The Tiger's Roar provided the swing band with an opportunity to display its talent. To some of the numbers already mentioned, the band added a few concert numbers for the Roar.

Those attending the Tiger's Roar cast party saw the band split into two groups and have a battle of bands. All the seniors composed one unit, while the juniors and sophomores outdid their efforts with another band.

Setting up the band stand on the first floor, the swing band gave the students a chance to dance in the halls after a home basketball game.

Highlight of the year was a spring concert presented to the high school at an assembly. Playing over television at Austin was a new experience for the newer members while some of the enjoyment was taken out of the year when the Mankato assembly was cancelled.

An old time sax quartet comprised of Dale Olsen, first alto; Jim Blackburn, tenor; David Olson, third alto and David Jordahl, baritone, added a little variety at some of the school dances with a few enlivening polkas, waltzes and schottisches.

Because of its large size, the band had to use two different outfits at the same time. The sax section could easily be distinguished from the rest of the band in their sharp maroon coats and white trousers. The other members were dressed in yellow jackets with dark trousers.

EXPERIENCE FOR THE FUTURE is gained by Roger Berg, swing band leader, as he receives instructions concerning arrangements from Mr. Jerry Felle, practice teacher in music. During his stay Mr. Felle spent much of his time working with the boys in the band.

SWING BAND SOLOIST Dale Olsen entertained many audiences with his "professional touch."

FIVE TRUMPETERS who formed the "backbone" of the swing band's jazz arrangements are Paul Hill, Tom Dahl, Conrad Wangen, David Hanson and Bob Hershey. This section was featured at many dances.

Zealous Modern Language Students

"ENTREZ DANS LA SALLE DE CLASSE," suggests Robert Sorenson, French Club president and Ronald Matthies, vice president, to Eleanor Perau, club secretary, and Judith Olson, treasurer.

To create an interest in French, the French Club gave members a chance to learn more about France and its language by listening to French music, both old and new, reading famous stories and books in their original form and singing French songs. This proved to be fun as well as being a definite aid in helping students become linguists. A subscription to the "Paris Match," a French magazine, helped students to learn applied French.

Miss Ruth Bauer, French instructor and French Club adviser, helped carry through the interest in French Club by relating her personal experiences in Europe during the club meetings. She also arranged to have French movies for the club. At Christmas time the members read Christmas stories and learned many French carols.

Many times the students divided into discussion groups where they were permitted to talk about anything as long as they spoke in French. Games, both French and those native to America, were played but here also they could only speak French. This proved to be a lot of fun when someone became excited and couldn't think of the proper French words.

Break Barriers in Shrinking World

To learn about South American countries was the main theme of this year's Spanish Club. During each meeting of this active group, a report explaining their customs was given on one of the countries.

Another project included the using of a tape recorder so that the second year class could record songs in Spanish to be played for the first year class. This helped them in learning the words and soon they were able to participate in and enjoy this club activity. The tape recorder was also used to give club members practice in translation and provided a means of becoming more familiar with the language.

Under the helpful guidance of Miss Ruth Bauer, instructor, the business meetings were held every two weeks. Meetings outside of school featured experimentation with recipes of Spanish food.

During the Christmas season students held their annual party featuring the breaking of the pinata.

Correspondence with Spanish-speaking pen pals was another added attraction to this year's Spanish Club. Through this they acquired interesting information about the customs and life of other people in other countries and became good friends with the students to whom they were writing.

SUNNY OLD SPAIN captivates Marion Schneider and Michael Knutsen, first-year Spanish students, as they dream through travel folders and information pamphlets.

USING THE POWER of the pen to make friends are Dorothy Stephens, Spanish Club secretary, and Diane Paulson, president, who corresponded regularly with their pen pals in Spanish-speaking countries. Standing are Judy Kuifers, vice president, and David Anderson, treasurer.

Promote Education and Fun In JCL

Promoting an appreciation for the classic languages and their cultures, the Junior Classical League functions in Albert Lea High School. Under the supervision of Miss Clara Berdan, members of the club learned more about the laws, literature and government upon which our modern culture is founded.

Membership in the organization included all interested students who have had two years of Latin.

The annual initiation ceremony had to be dropped this year because Miss Berdan became incapacitated with a broken ankle. Those who joined were accepted during December in a private ceremony in the classes.

Enlarged upon because of missing the initiation, the annual banquet, February 4, was a great success. After the meal the members were entertained by skits of old mythology and historic events. Each member put in many hours of work on the year's highlight.

Journeying to Northfield, the JCL members attended the sixth annual state convention on the campus of Carleton College. Bryan Neel, state vice president, aided in organizing the program.

The national Junior Classical League was founded in 1935 by the American Classical League and was organized here in 1939. A national convention is held bi-annually to which any member is invited.

WINNING PRIZES FOR THE BEST COSTUMES at the Halloween party were Judy Johnsrud, Julie Sherman, Judy Hanson and Susan Botz.

In striving for unity and friendship, members of Hi-Teens worked together on many useful projects throughout the school year. Open to all girls in Senior High, more than 250 girls belonged to this organization.

The organizational meeting, held in September, initiated the year for Hi-Teeners. Working diligently on Homecoming, Hi-Teens was in charge of the dance decorations and in charge of making pom poms.

Highlighting the October meeting was the Halloween party where the girls came dressed in weird costumes. Each class gave a skit, with the sophomore class winning.

Guests at the December meeting were the girls' mothers. The girls presented a style show, one of the annual events in cooperation with a local department store.

Another annual event, the Kitten's Meow, a miniature Tiger's Roar, was put on by the girls in March.

At Easter, the Hi-Teeners made favors which went to Naeve Hospital. A special program of the year featured Robert Sorenson, AFS student, who gave a talk on Germany along with many picturesque slides.

HI-TEENS OFFICERS ENJOYED a happy year working together. They are Nancy Kinsley, president; Susan LeBeau, vice president; Eloise Ellson, secretary and Janet Gurwell, treasurer.

COMPOSING THE DRAMA CLUB'S board of directors are—SEATED: Julie Argue, Judy Nannestad, Jay Vollum, Janet Gorder and Karen Platt. STANDING: Bill Lloyd and Janet Gurwell.

Success was achieved as the Drama Department began their 1957-58 season when the Masquers presented their fifteenth major production, "Father of the Bride." This was a delightful three-act comedy which kept the students busy for weeks and the audience amused and happy.

"The Caine Mutiny Court-Martial" climaxed the year for the Albert Lea High School Drama Club.

This was the tense court martial proceedings against a young, upright lieutenant who relieved his captain of his command in the midst of a harrowing typhoon on the grounds that the captain was psychopathic and in the crisis was directing his ship and crew to destruction.

Another challenge was met as students and advisers worked to perfect a dramatic reading which was presented to the student body. "John Brown's Body", an intimate narrative of the Civil War which was related in poetic diction, brings about a realization of the Southern racial problem, which was vivid, stirring and brilliant. It was an exceptional performance by the Speech Choir, Madrigal Singers, the Orchestra and three solo leads.

Miss Hildred Tennihill guided the students in all productions with the help of Mr. Robert Myers and Mr. Lester Striemer.

DON TASKER was a bit skeptical as members of the make-up crew practiced their work. Pictured are Carol Gilpin, Janet Gurwell, Janet Gorder, Judy Nannestad and Karen Platt.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT of tampering with the switchboard is Jerry Fredrickson. The detective work was done by Bill Lloyd and Steve Fabry, stage crew members.

Society Sponsors Traditional Drive

"THIS ONE CAME FROM SWEDEN!" remarks Bryan Neel, president of the Honor Society, to Judy Myers, vice president; Jim Nettleton, treasurer and Angie Warrington, secretary, as they admire U. N. Christmas cards which they sold.

Character, scholarship, leadership and service are the ideals that members of National Honor Society tried to uphold. A grade average of 3.0 was essential before anyone could apply for admittance.

Thirteen juniors were initiated last spring with these students forming the nucleus of the society until the fall initiation, December 11. A. Ali Khan, exchange editor from East Pakistan, was the guest speaker. Following the ceremony, new members and their mothers were invited to a tea in the home economics living room.

Helping to stress United Nations Day, October 24, members sold food made from recipes from countries in the United Nations. Food was sold during the lunch periods with the money going to the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund.

Selling Christmas cards raised money for members to contribute to the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. One hundred boxes were sold for an all-time high.

Honor Society members highlighted their successful year with the annual "Have-A-Heart" Drive, held February 5-11. During the week members sold hearts for 25 cents, 50 cents and one dollar.

Climaxing the week was the dance at which the King and Queen of Hearts were crowned. Proceeds from the week's work were divided among seven charities.

Adviser of the Honor Society was Miss Ruth Woods. Her guidance led the members through a successful year.

To gain a better insight into chemistry, biology and other scientific fields was the principal aim sought by members of the Science Club. Regular meetings were held on alternating Thursdays in room 103, under the supervision of Mr. Dale Shuldes. This was Mr. Shuldes' first year with the Science Club.

Members were encouraged to undertake various projects of their own as well as participate in those endorsed by the entire club. Included in these were those of Terry Katzung who experimented with electrolytic analysis of water solutions, Bob Hovey who made a model of a hydrogen furnace, Jerry Oothoudt who erected a rocket model and Larry Bolton who experimented with the production and transmission of electricity.

Those students with outstanding projects journeyed to Rochester April 19 where they showed their scientific aptitudes at the Regional Science Fair.

Group activities consisted of field trips to various places of interest in the surrounding area and tours of industries in and around Albert Lea.

For the Homecoming Parade a float was entered by the club with a large cannon having the inscription "Blast The Birds."

Red Cross Helps Those In Need

PLANNING THE DESIGN FOR HOSPITAL FAVORS are the Red Cross officers: Annis Hylbak, Shirley Anderson, Steve Fabry, Duane Harves, Julie Argue and Gary Myran, who guided this year's organization.

"We Serve", the motto of the American Junior Red Cross, was carried out in the Senior Red Cross Organization by sponsoring various projects.

The American Red Cross sponsored the bloodmobile which provided members with a chance to serve their community as typists and general errand helpers.

Small Christmas tree bulbs were transformed into Santa heads and used as Christmas Day favors for the patients of Naeve Hospital. Julie Argue and Steve Fabry's committee completed this service to great satisfaction for themselves and the recipients.

This year's membership drive and fund raising campaign was held the week of March 3-7, and the Albert Lea Senior High proved generous as usual.

Projects in the foreign field included scrapbooks and a gift chest made by the members of the club.

Warner Nettleton, biology teacher, acted as Red Cross adviser. Mrs. Iner Vollum, Freeborn County Junior Red Cross Chairman, also lent valuable assistance.

Albert Lea's representatives to the Red Cross training camp were Duane Harves and Annis Hylbak, senior high representatives and Jeanene Booen and Larry Haugen, junior high representatives. Learning the Red Cross history and information on working in Red Cross was the purpose of the camp.

Ushers' Efficiency Serves School

To greet you at an auditorium door with a warm smile and a friendly "Good Evening" shows a small portion of the dedication to service that the girls of Ushers Club possessed at each performance.

Together with Miss Grace Dahle, supervisor, the officers planned the programs for the business meetings, supervised the girls during ushering and guided them to the Ushers Club's high standards.

Assisting the ushers, Horst Hehr, James Nettleton, Howard Sorenson and Gary Myran worked in the lobby to help people to find the correct section. Many of the school performances ushered at were various plays, pageants, concerts and the Tiger's Roar.

In choosing and qualifying sophomores and juniors, a practicing period offered the opportunity for the eligible members to receive instruction on reading of tickets and the proper procedure in ushering a person to his seat. A reading tickets test was administered for the purpose of finding the girls who were alert and fast. Qualities such as personality and dependability were also taken into consideration.

Social events were held, such as potlucks and punch parties, to provide a time when the ushers could talk over problems they met in actual ushering.

To make the Ushers Club completely successful in its service, the ushers had to put forth effort in working efficiently with one another. Another year passes, but the Ushers Club's motto is still service.

Future Educators Are Encouraged

CONDUCTING THE FTA MEETINGS this year were officers: Sonia Syverson, Evelyn Wood, Duane Harves and Bonnie DeVries.

After a variety of activities, the McGuffey Future Teachers of America concluded its fourth year of existence in the Albert Lea High School.

FTA, a national organization, endeavors to encourage students to consider teaching as a career if the necessary qualities of character and scholarship are possessed.

To gain knowledge about their future career, FTA members met every second and fourth Tuesday of the month alternating meetings with business and programs.

Club officers Evelyn Wood, president; Bonnie DeVries, vice president; Sonia Syverson, secretary and Duane Harves, treasurer, worked with the club to form a competent, worthwhile organization.

Mrs. Barbara Verdoorn offered a helping hand by assisting as the new faculty adviser.

FTA's Homecoming float portrayed the slogan "They'll Never Learn." Construction of a red school house carried out the theme.

Future educators attending the Rochester Teaching Workshop reported their experiences to the club.

"IS TEACHING LIKE THIS?" wonders Joan Palmer as Alton Bushman poses as a "problem pupil" with Vivian Unseth and Martha Olson.

"WOULD YOU LIKE SOME PUNCH?" asks Shirley Jenson of Sonja Gunderson at the annual FTA initiation party.

To Enter the Teaching Profession

Fall initiation was held in the home economics living-room to install 25 new members. Essential teaching qualities were revealed by seniors.

Potlucks proved to be the peak of the social activities when FTA met at various homes. Mrs. Arie DeVries enlightened the club at the winter tea when she revealed experiences of her rural teaching career.

Service to the community was a goal reached when gifts were sent to mentally retarded children. Presents could not be breakable and each was specially wrapped.

Successful money-raising projects were a bake sale and an April dance. Homemade cookies, cakes and candies were sold at the Valentine's Day sale.

Highlighting the active club year was a visit to the J. John Halverson Elementary School. Members viewed actual elementary teaching procedure.

Senior members received certificates which were awarded at the end of the year if the annual requirement of 50 points was achieved. Observing classroom functions, preparing club meetings and assisting in classes were duties that merited points toward the honor.

DECORATING A TEACHER'S BULLETIN BOARD as an FTA project are Bonnie Stephenson, Rose Marie Faltus and Judy Anderson.

SERVING AS HOSTESSES at the FHA initiation tea are the officers, Carol Ferguson, Sharon Jakobson, Yvonne Stevens and Virginia Tennyson, who worked cooperatively through the year.

With the motto "Toward New Horizons" the Albert Lea Chapter of the Future Homemakers of America began their fourth year of service to school and community.

During the fair the girls worked with the Future Farmers of America in a concession stand to earn money to finance the projects of the coming year.

The chapter held an impressive candlelight initiation ceremony. Each girl received a small red rose and a program outlining the coming year. The chapter mother, Mrs. Amos Knutson; the chapter parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Herman and the chapter adviser, Miss Beverly Knutson, were introduced. Members and guests then went to the cafeteria for a tea.

To acquaint the mothers with the FHA, the club held a Mother-Daughter Tea at which Carol Ferguson, president, explained the year's program and announced the clothing drive for the mental home at Faribault.

As their second joint project, the FHA and FFA celebrated the holiday season with their annual Christmas party. They began the evening by caroling at the nursing homes in and near Albert Lea. Afterwards the fellows and girls played games, danced and ate lunch at the YMCA. The party was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Herman, Miss Knutson and Mr. Donald Paulson, who is the FFA chapter adviser.

Sells Medallions as Financial Aid

Another of the joint activities in which the FFA and FHA participated was the "Gingham and Denim" Party. The fellows and girls spent the major part of the evening square-dancing followed by refreshments.

As their main financial project, the girls sold gold and silver graduation medallions with the numbers symbolizing the year of graduation.

Since one of the goals of the FHA is to understand our neighbors at home and abroad, the girls promoted an international smorgasbord. Each member brought food which originated in or was typical of another country. The girls wore foreign costumes.

In the spring the chapter held a tea for prospective members and the new officers were installed. Each of the girls received a pamphlet explaining the organization. This little booklet helped the girls understand the chapter, its goals and projects.

Near the end of the school year, the chapter held its annual picnic for the seniors. This gave them a chance to reminisce about the projects of past years.

Guiding the organization through the year were the officers: Carol Ferguson, president; Sharon Jakobson, vice president; Virginia Tennyson, secretary; Yvonne Stevens, treasurer; W. Jean Olsen, reporter; Lola Besco, parliamentarian; Ruth Vande Voort, historian and Janet Hurst, song leader.

Diversified Furnished Opportunities

Gaining vocational knowledge by working part-time for local businessmen, gave the 25 members of the Diversified Club the experience needed for future employment. Students enrolled in diversified chose a job from one of three main areas: miscellaneous trades, office work and distributive work.

Under the training of Mr. Norman Bailey, the students learn how to find an occupation suitable to their needs. The students also learn the techniques of good business.

Students enrolled in this program were not primarily interested in earning extra money but the main interest lay in wanting to learn a specific vocation.

Besides being for students who do not plan to attend college, the club enables members to earn money which helps some to attend school who probably couldn't afford to otherwise.

The 25 diversified members could obtain four credits during their membership in the club. They took English, social, their special diversified class with Mr. Bailey, the coordinator; and instead of attending classes at the school in the afternoon, the members began work at 1 p.m. each day. Members of the diversified worked an average of 30 hours a week.

During the distributive class, the members this year followed a new system to obtain more learning in salesmanship. The members spent three days reading and studying which was called related instruction and two days were spent doing book work.

Each member of the Diversified Club filled out records which covered the function of his job. The records were then checked by Mr. Bailey, and sent to the state office so the state had a check on the progress each student was making on his job.

"I CAN'T GET THIS IN HERE," says perplexed Terry Cole to Dennis Vollmer, Merle Andresen and Dave Hanson.

To Interested Vocational Students

In order to provide for a better qualification for this course, students thinking of entering the program were advised to take such subjects as bookkeeping, typing, business principles and machines and office practice.

Members of diversified not only had their job and school classes, but they also attend local meetings, regional meetings and conventions. They first attended the regional Pre-delegate Assembly on October 23 at which students were chosen for state offices. Then on November 6 the members journeyed to the South St. Paul to attend the Delegate Convention at which Julene Johnson was chosen vice president of the Minnesota Diversified Vocational Club. A two-day State Convention was held in April at St. Paul which the members also attended.

Future business leaders of the Albert Lea local chapter also attended an Employers and Employees Banquet in May. Besides holding weekly meetings, the club had parties during the year.

Gaining further experience in farming by participating in the Future Farmers of America, members completed another year of the Albert Lea Chapter.

Projects in the divisions of dairy, crop, hog, poultry and livestock broadened and improved the background of each participant. These projects, carried on at home, contributed to cooperation between the FFAers and instructors, Mr. Don Paulson and Mr. Lowell Ross, who helped organize each boy's home project.

Participation in livestock shows was one of the features of the year for those who are in that division. These included the county fair, the Spring Barrow Show and many others. Shows gave the student a chance to put his animal in prize-winning condition. Trophies are displayed in the Albert Lea Chapter's show case, which always holds many presentations.

This year a calf owned and shown by the local chapter won the grand champion award at Beautena Royal Show at the Rice County Fairgrounds.

THE ALBERT LEA CHAPTER showed this heifer at the Beautena Royal Show. With the animal are Mr. Donald Paulson, Mr. Gilmer Undahl, Walter Steele and David Sanders, who exhibited the calf.

Nordean Krueger, a junior member of the local FFA chapter, won the state cow clipping contest at the University Farm in St. Paul, January 16. He earned the right to compete in the state contest by becoming the district champion at Northfield.

He was awarded 50 dollars for clipping a cow in 13 minutes and 40 seconds at the state competition; he was also awarded 25 dollars and a plaque for winning the district competition. The scoring method used by the judges was to give 40 points for the quality of the work, 25 points for speed, 25 points for the technique and 10 points for brushing the animal.

At the annual banquet, March 28, the speaker was the National Student Secretary Jerry Litton of Chillicothe, Missouri. He has held the office since the national convention at Kansas City in October, 1956.

The local unit was named sectional champion in the Dekalb Corn Growing Competition in which eight boys won wall plaques for the local chapter.

Rifle, Chess Clubs Start Activities

Incorporated last spring by a group of sports-minded boys, the Rifle Club began its first full year of existence. It was started to improve marksmanship, to promote gun safety and to teach members good sportsmanship.

Early in the year, the officers for the club were elected. They were Douglas Hill, president; Donald Tasker, vice president; Sydney Schwartz, secretary; and Howard Thompson, treasurer.

Meetings were held bi-weekly, with shooting practice held each week in the Armory. Nothing is done to conduct formal field trips, but many went hunting and practiced shooting with other members of the club on individual trips during the year.

The group was advised by Mr. Sydney Schwartz Sr., industrial arts teacher and Mr. Holger Knudsen, Jr., a local businessman. Mr. Knudsen was very instrumental in forming the club and has assisted the group in the various aspects of its organization.

While meeting in the Armory, the club's twenty members practice shooting. Targets were purchased with money borrowed from the Student Council, after the club's constitution was approved.

The school Rifle Club joined the National Rifle Association, a group of people interested in firearms. Upon joining the NRA, the local club was given five target rifles. An additional rifle was received for each three members installed.

Quill and Scroll Initiates Members

Among the various activities which Junior and Senior High chessmen engaged in during the year were chess ladder-tournaments, competitive matches with the chess club of Owatonna High and individual tournaments between junior and senior high members.

ALHS chessmen handed Owatonna a 8-1 defeat and the junior high chessmen were defeated by the more experienced Senior chessmen by a score of 9-3. Ladder tournaments found Roger Christenson and Daryl Rosenberg leading the way for junior and senior high clubs.

President Daryl Rosenberg displayed not only superior efforts in guiding the executive duties of the club, but also showed marked showmanship by remaining "top man on the ladder" throughout the year.

While striving to produce the best school paper and All-American Yearbook, the journalists had an opportunity to qualify for membership in Quill and Scroll.

General journalistic aptitude, a minimum of 1500 words and the submittance of a copy of one's work accompanied each journalist's application for membership. For those who did not qualify during their junior year, a second application, with all qualifications the same except that a minimum 2500 words was required.

In the Spring the annual Quill and Scroll Banquet was held. Miss Edna Gercken, adviser, distributed awards and the seniors bid farewell with the announcing of the 1958-59 Tiger staff.

ENGAGED IN PLANNING THE program for the annual Quill and Scroll banquet are Susan LeBeau, Jane Schoenrock, Karen Oldert, Myrna Hartz, Betty Kofstad and Dianne Manthei.

"Around the School in 180 Days"

MAKING AN OVERALL CHECK on the progress of the yearbook are Ronni Matthies, co-editor; Duane Harves, photography editor; Betty Kofstad, literary editor; and Karen Jorgenson, co-editor.

While working on the Ah La Ha Sa staff headed by Alton Bushman, the journalists received added responsibility as they procured positions on the Tiger staff, announced at the annual Quill and Scroll Banquet.

One of the first tasks of the new staff was selecting a theme to bind the entire book together. After many suggestions and much controversy, the theme "Around the School in 180 Days" was selected.

Carrying out the theme and co-ordinating the activities was the responsibility of Karen Jorgenson and Ronald Matthies, co-editors. Subscription drives were held early in the fall throughout the entire school and town. In charge of all money obtained from subscriptions and delivering all the books were the publicity and circulation managers.

As the copy and identifications were written the job of the literary editor proved monumental. She was responsible for correcting all written material in the Tiger.

The tasks of the business managers included providing refreshments at athletic events, as well as keeping accurate accounts of all the finances for the yearbook.

Guides Staff's Work on '58 Tiger

The remaining positions were taken over by ambitious journalists. Some of the students' duties were: requisitioning pictures, arranging pictures, drawing page make-ups and writing copy and headlines.

Orientating the students with the various ways of writing and drawing page make-ups and acquainting them with basic grammar rules was the chief endeavor of Miss Edna Gercken, publications adviser.

In addition to their editorial duties, the journalists reimbursed their funds by selling at various athletic events throughout the year. Assisting the students in their financial projects were Miss Marie Skjeveland, Mr. Arthur Anthony and Mr. Charles Fairchild, business advisers to the group. Bowers candy and Readers' Digest subscriptions were sold along with candy on buses.

Richard Nelson and Jeffrey Larson spent many hours taking pictures and developing them. Assisting the photographers was the purpose of the newly created position of photography editor. Providing information and teaching them new techniques was the duty of Mr. Orville Gilmore, adviser to the photographers.

To learn new methods and perfect work, three journalists traveled to Chicago and many of the students attended conventions in Faribault and Minneapolis during their two years of journalism.

"POSING" FOR THE PHOTOGRAPHER, Dick Nelson, are Sally Steiner, Dianne Manthei, Pat Baker, Tony Gudvangen and Carol Bisgaard, editors of the organization section.

SEARCHING FOR NEW IDEAS in yearbook pictures to improve their feature section are Karen Hillstrom, Anne Esse, Lois Johnson and Elizabeth Johnsrud.

TO WHOM EACH OF THE 1300 YEARBOOKS will go is the question asked by the circulation managers: LaDonna Hansen, Nancy Benson, Margaret Nielson and Sue LeBeau.

DISCUSSING VARIOUS WAYS to improve the AH LA HA SA are Marion Vietor and Mary Whitcomb, second page editors; Julie Argue, Editor-in-chief; and JoAnne Sether and Leanne Palmer, first page editors.

PLANNING THE PAGES for a future issue of the school newspaper are Judy Palm, Bonnie DeVries, Bill Hansen, Bob Ullman, Carol Opegard and David Skoloda, third page editors, girls' sports and boys' sports editors.

Journalists Enter

Venturing into a new field, that of journalistic writing, 50 junior journalists were taught the techniques of journalism under the guidance of Miss Edna Gercken. Page makeups, pica sticks, galleys and page proofs became the foundation for the duties they inherited.

Publication of the Student Directory was one of their money-making projects. Compiling the names of the students' addresses and telephone numbers, they learned to assume responsibility and meet deadlines. They also acquired the fundamentals of arranging copy and proof-reading all material.

By soliciting advertisers the journalists discovered a new aspect in the business field. The profit which was secured from the directory was used to help finance the yearbook. Ads for this year's directory surmounted those of other directories which have been published in previous years with a total of 198 business firms advertising.

At the beginning of the second semester the juniors assumed the job of editing and managing the Ah La Ha Sa. Throughout the year they discovered the hard work that goes into putting out a paper, but they also received many rewards for their endeavors.

Making arrangements with the printer and correcting all copy was the responsibility of the editor-in-chief.

Newspaper Field

Page editors drew up the make-ups finding different variations, assigned stories and corrected copy. They also made sure that all deadlines were met with promptness.

Other phases in journalism that were perfected were the jobs of advertising, circulation, art and exchanging papers with other schools in order to accumulate new ideas. Business managers handled the budget and carried out all business transactions. The backbone of the paper, the reporters, reported the news and got interviews which made the paper successful.

By selling pop, candy, pop corn and other refreshments, junior journalists worked with the seniors and made a profit of approximately 500 dollars during the football season. Candy and pop was also sold at the basketball games throughout the season.

Another extremely effective money making project was selling Bower's candy. The profit from these projects was used to finance the Ah La Ha Sa and the Tiger.

Attending the Big Nine Journalism Clinic at Fari-bault and the state convention at Minneapolis, the journalists acquired new ideas and concepts in journalism.

Highlighting the year's events were the initiation into Quill and Scroll and the announcement of the Tiger staff.

BUSILY WORKING on their respective jobs are Steve Fabry and Karen Platt, business managers, and Dennis Breamer and Merlyn Hartzler, advertising managers.

LOOKING OVER various high school papers are Judy Indrelie and Shirley Jenson, circulation managers; Gerri Noland, exchange editor and Mary Kay Kelly and Mary Walker, staff artists.

Sports

Many sporting events afforded athletes the opportunity to display their skill and prowess, while gaining a valuable insight into sportsmanship and working with a group. The various sports contributed greatly to the enjoyment of the year and also gave students experience.

Football was first on the agenda of athletics. In addition to the game itself the athletes learned the fundamentals of clean rivalry, good sportsmanship and the basic rules of honesty and fair play. Although the game was lost, the team and the spectators showed their character by accepting the defeat graciously.

During the winter basketball and wrestling were the exciting sports. For many years the games have been played at Central. However, with the final game of this year the students bid farewell to this gym and anticipated the games next year in the gymnasium of Southwest Junior High School. The wrestlers chalked up an impressive record this year. This was accomplished through interest of the school and the skill and sportsmanship of the wrestlers.

Many students forget the spring sports such as tennis, track, baseball and golf, but these sports play an important role in the school. Another group deserving credit are the spectators. It is their job to cheer the team on to victory, to take an avid interest in all sports and to accept defeat or victory with sense and intelligence.

Albert Lea's fired-up grid team posted its best record in recent years by chalking up a 5-4 record. Future prospects also look bright since they often displayed some very impressive football during the season.

Albert Lea soundly thumped Faribault, September 6 by a score of 25-7. A stout defense coupled with a precision like offense that scored a total of 249 yards to lead the way to victory for the Tigers.

Earl Ashpole opened the Tiger scoring by running 26 yards for a touchdown. The extra point was missed so the Tigers held an early 6-0 lead. In the second quarter Ashpole again scored, this time on a 46 yard jaunt. The point after was again missed so Albert Lea left the field at half time holding a slim 14-6 margin. Faribault's only tally came on a nifty pass play.

Marion Loge also scored, while Duane Harves and Tom Benson teamed up to garnish the final tally for the night. The victory was a good start in the right direction for the Tiger team.

Albert Lea had considerable trouble getting its offense together and as a result dropped a 14-6 decision to Austin on September 13. The Packers scored twice in the first half while the Tigers were held scoreless. In the second half the Cherry and Blue gridders pulled their offense together long enough for one sustained drive which resulted in a touchdown. After the score both teams battled in even terms near midfield.

ROGER VILLARREAL is shown breaking between two Owatonna tacklers on the way to a short gain. Albert Lea won the game 14-6 by using the control type of football.

Compile 5-4 Record for Grid Year

In the third game of the season, Albert Lea ran into some inclement weather but still managed to make Fairmont its second victim of the year by defeating the Cardinals 13-0. The staunch defense of the Tigers again was the main factor in securing the win in this wet and somewhat muddy affair on September 20.

Roger Villarreal scampered around the left end on a 75 yard run, while a pass from Dick Oliphant to Ron Radke was responsible for the Tigers other score. Fairmont failed to penetrate the Tigers' territory.

Albert Lea copped a 31-0 win from Winona on September 20, extending a streak which held the opponents scoreless for a total of 11 straight periods dating back to the Austin game. The Tigers again coupled a splendid offense and a staunch and stubborn defense.

Co-captain Earl Ashpole carried the ball on six of the first seven plays from scrimmage to set up a neatly executed belly series fake. A pitchout to Villarreal gave the Tigers their first score. Villarreal also scored on two other occasions on runs of 11 and 2 yards. Gordy Larson scored on a 56 yard run, the only time he had an occasion to run with the ball. Oliphant and Marion Loge accounted for the other two scores. The win ran the Tiger record to three wins against one defeat.

DICK OLIPHANT AND DON TASKER look on as Earl Ashpole is brought down by a host of Owatonna tacklers. Ron Jacobsen lying in the foreground apparently has missed his block.

JIM IVERSON OF THE TIGERS bats down a Red Wing pass intended for Jim Hayes. This was one of the Tiger's better defensive plays of the night, but the Tigers still lost by a 26-14 margin.

BOB HAZELTON OF WINONA breaks into the open as Tiger end Jim Krieger hastily pursues him. He apparently must have been caught since Albert Lea won the game 31-0.

Ashpole, Brooke Win All-Big Nine;

TOM BROOKE AND ROGER VILLARREAL move in to help out as Bob Ullman and Ray Samudio bring down an Owatonna back.

With their record standing at 3-1, the Tigers moved into their October 4 encounter with Rochester. Playing without star fullback Earl Ashpole, the Tiger's offense continued to roll; but their defense fell apart, as they lost 34-13 for their second loss.

Albert Lea failed to score until the fourth quarter, but then after a 70 yard drive Roger Villarreal went over from 7 yards out for their first tally. After an on-side kick, the Tigers rolled back and Marion Loge scored from the one yard line.

Playing in the rain throughout the first half, the Tigers lost a lead and the Homecoming Game to Red Wing on October 11 by a final margin of 27-14.

The Tigers scored early in the game as the result of a blocked kick after which Loge ran 14 yards.

Dick Oliphant sneaked over from the one yard line for the final tally which gave the Tigers a brief 14-13 halftime lead, which was erased in the second half.

In the second half the Wingers led by quarterback Steve Malnar rolled for two touchdowns. The Albert Lea offense was stymied by the stout Red Wing line.

With these last two losses all Tiger hopes for the Big Nine title vanished.

Proving the old theory that control of the ball wins football games, the Tigers rolled to a 14-6 victory over Owatonna, October 16, during perfect game conditions.

After the opening kick-off, Albert Lea marched 80 yards to their first score. The drive consumed the whole first quarter and involved the entire backfield. Dick Oliphant sneaked over from the one for the score.

Oliphant scored later in the second period to give the Tigers a 14-0 lead at halftime which they were able to hold onto for the victory. Good line play throughout the game helped the team score the victory.

On October 25 the Tigers traveled to Northfield where they took a close 20-13 verdict over the Raiders.

The first quarter was a scoreless duel, but Earl Ashpole finally blasted over for the score.

The next score came after a lightning drive that covered 90 yards in four plays and consumed only 44 seconds. A pass from Oliphant to Marion Loge covered the final 22 yards for the score. The final Tiger score came after a 77 yard drive with Ashpole going over from the two yard line.

In the final game of the year, the Tigers dropped a 20-7 decision to Mankato on November 5. The game was much closer than the score indicates as the Tigers led in the statistics.

Albert Lea's lone score came on a five yard off tackle drive by Roger Villarreal after a 70 yard drive.

A DETERMINED LOOK on the face of a unidentified Northfield tackler could be attributed to the strong running of Roger Villarreal. This type of running helped Villarreal to lead the Tigers in the rushing department for the year.

TOM BROOKE PURSUES Red Wing's all state quarterback, Steve Malnar. Due to Malnar's running and passing, the Wingers downed Albert Lea.

Continued support of the Tiger football squad was the major item on the agenda of the Quarterback Club throughout the second year of operation.

The climax of the year came with the annual Football Banquet which was held at the close of the season. Guest speaker at the event was Emil Biesen, football coach at Carlton College. Another highlight was the announcement that Tom Brooke had been chosen Player of The Year. It was also revealed that Dick Stadheim and Bob Knutson had been elected co-captains of the 1958 grid squad.

Earlier in the year, the group showed the way to restore football as the major sport in Albert Lea by their many actions throughout the season.

At all of the home games, the club sat in a special reserved section and greeted the team as they came on the field to add incentive to the team spirit.

The group met every Wednesday night for a supper meeting and a program that followed. Coach Jim Gustafson reported on the outlook for the upcoming game and usually showed a film of one of the previous games. A new innovation this year was a guest coach from the surrounding area who gave a talk on his team.

Bengals Get Slow Start, Win Two

Albert Lea's Bengal football team ended the 1957 campaign with a mediocre 2-3 record, but the record does not begin to tell the story behind this year's team. After a slow start that had many people wondering why the group could not get going, the team then chalked up two successive wins to end the year.

Albert Lea opened its Bengal season September 18 against Faribault and came out on the short end of a 14-6 score in what could be termed a very even and tightly played ball game.

On September 26 the Bengals hosted Austin and suffered a heart-breaking 20-19 loss. The Packers opened a quick 13-0 lead only to have the Bengals come back and tie the score. Steve Claybourn scored twice and Dave Olson once to give the Bengals an insecure 19-13 lead. Both teams then fought near mid-field until the Packers made one final march to tie the game at 19-19 and then made the extra point for the final score.

October 3 found the Bengals traveling to Owatonna where they again were victims of their own mistakes and dropped their third straight game.

The Bengals finally pulled out a win over Fairmont and then closed out its home season by defeating the Waseca Farm School 19-12 in a game marred by extremely cold weather. The Bengal's final game with Austin was canceled due to the flu germ which first hit Austin and then Albert Lea.

TALKING OVER PROSPECTS FOR THE COMING YEAR are Coaches Bruce Johnson, Paul Ehrhard, Bill Standly, Jim Gustafson.

Tigers Finish Seventh in Big Nine

TIGER CAGERS GATHER AROUND COACHES Paul Wilke and Lou Olson during a tense moment at the district tournament in Austin. In spite of their new platoon system, the Tigers were downed 75-58.

Finishing up the regular 1957-58 season with a five win, ten loss record, the Tiger cagers looked impressive at times, and showed much hope for the future. Using two sophomores and two juniors on the starting five, the Tigers ended up with a three win, seven loss record.

Minneapolis Patrick Henry spoiled Albert Lea's opener on November 23, by handing the Tigers a 55-37 defeat. In the first conference game of the season on November 29, the Tigers downed a veteran Owatonna team 51-46. Sophomore guard Dave Donovan paced the Tiger upset with 20 points.

On December 6 the Tigers lost a thriller to Mankato 55-46, for their second conference defeat. The local cagers rallied within striking distance several times, only to drop back behind the aggressive Scarlets.

Leading 36-27 at the half, the Tigers lost a hard fought game to a rugged Austin quintet 60-52.

In the fourth conference game of the year, the Tigers, plagued by a poor first half, were downed by Northfield 56-46.

Albert Lea won their second conference game of the season by whipping a taller St. Paul Murray five, 52-41, on January 3. Balanced scoring won it for the Tigers.

On January 10 the Tigers were victims of Winona's fast break attack and were trounced 66-47.

After trailing by eight points at the half, Tiger cagers staged a second half comeback to nip a weakened Rochester quintet, 48-44. The Rockets, with only one starter available, showed plenty of spirit in holding the Tigers down the first half of the game.

In the season's first overtime contest, the Tigers were topped by a scrappy Hopkins team, 53-52, on January 24.

Facing unbeaten Austin on January 31, the Tigers were downed by the Packers 65-42. The Tigers' weakness in scoring and Austin's domination of the backboards were the deciding factors in the Tigers' defeat. Austin's defensive strength was shown by the lack of scoring punch on the part of the Tigers, as no player scored in double figures.

In one of Albert Lea's better games of the year, the Tigers bowed to highly rated and once beaten Red Wing 49-45. The Tigers held a 30-28 edge at halftime and led 38-37 at the three-quarter mark. With less than 30 seconds to go the Wingers began pulling away to the final margin of victory.

NO LESS THAN EIGHT HANDS are grabbing this ball, as Duane Harves and Ron Jacobsen battle with Rochester's Jerry Powers and Wes Bray.

RON JACOBSEN, THE TIGER'S ONLY SENIOR starter, displays his driving form that made him so valuable to the team in a game against Rochester on January 24.

Displaying some of the coldest shooting of the year, the Tigers were defeated by Wells in a non-conference game, 48-36. The taller Tigers were consistently out-rebounded. In the last quarter reserves held the score down as Coach Wilke substituted freely, trying to win.

Mankato used its height advantage to trounce the Albert Lea cagers, 60-36. The first quarter was fairly close, but the Scarlets built up an insurmountable lead.

The last conference game of the season saw the Tigers defeat the Faribault Falcons in an overtime game, 53-45. After being tied at the end of regulation time at 44-44, the game turned into a rout as Albert Lea outscored the Falcons 9-1 in the overtime session.

Facing the St. Paul Wilson champs in the last game before the district, the Tigers won a close contest, 53-52, on Dave Olson's long one-handed set shot.

Olson's basket scored the last point in the old gym, as next year the team will play in the new junior high. The Tigers ended regular play with a 5-12 record.

District action saw Austin win for the eighth straight time over Albert Lea with a score of 75-58. Austin jumped to a quick lead and couldn't be overtaken.

SOPHOMORE FORWARD DAVE OLSON DRIVES between two much taller opponents, Austin's Roger Voss and Tom Kezar, to score on a lay up in the District Tournament game on March 4.

Donovan Leads Tigers in Scoring

VERSATILE GUARD DAVE DONOVAN DRIVES past Rochester's Harold Dirkson to score on a lay up. The Tigers nipped the Rockets 48-44.

OVERTAKING AUSTIN'S GUARD, MANLY OSBORN, Jim Glesne foils his attempted lay up by smashing it out of play.

Although the 1957-58 Bengal Basketball Team could only compile a three win, 12 loss record, they showed definite promise for the future. No less than five freshmen on the normally sophomore composed team played important roles in the fortunes of the young B squad. Dick Core was the lone sophomore starter.

Their rather unimpressive record is misleading when considering the fact that many of the games were very close and could have easily gone either way.

The Bengals started off the season on a winning note by whipping the Minneapolis Patrick Henry B squad 23-15. They then began a 12 game losing streak by dropping a 35-19 decision to Owatonna. On December 13 the Bengals looked impressive in being nipped by the Austin B's 32-29. Another game that could have gone either way came the following week when the Bengals were downed by Northfield 26-23.

On February 21 the Bengals finally broke their 12 game losing streak by topping Faribault 40-34.

SENIOR FORWARD RON JACOBSEN FIRES a short jump shot after outmaneuvering Austin's Roger Voss and Tom Kezar. The Packers won the district tournament, 75-58.

Grapplers Finish with 7-3 Record;

Leading the Tiger wrestlers to a winning 7-3 record were the co-captains, Don Blood and Tom Brooke. The Tigers were coached by Paul Ehrhard, who took over the team after a year's coaching at Kasson-Mantorville.

Before the regular season, the Tigers took part in the Mankato Invitational Tournament held at the Mankato State College. The only Tigers to place were Robert Hendrickson, who won first place in the 112 pound class, and Edward Hoeve, who took fourth in the 165 class.

Opening the Big Nine campaign at Owatonna, the Tigers lost to the Indians by a 36-16 score. Owatonna eventually won the regional. The next week they met another team, Mankato, who beat the Tigers 30-14.

Finally getting into the win column, the Tigers trounced their non-conference foe, Stewartville, 37-8. This win almost duplicated the Tigers' win over the same team of last year. Evening their record at 2-2, they won an exciting match from a strong Northfield team, 27-19.

Traveling to Winona, the Tigers won their third straight match on a 35-13 trouncing of the Winhawks. A representative Rochester club gave the Tigers a scare before falling 26-18. Before the match the Rockets had been lightly considered. In what proved to be the last win in a string of five victories, the Tigers out-fought the Waseca Farm school, 31-14, with eight Tiger wins.

WELL ON HIS WAY to defeating his tough opponent, Tom Brooke, 175-pounder and co-captain, scores two more points.

Austin's Packers brought an abrupt end to the Tiger win streak with a 24-23 squeaker at Austin. The Tigers fought back from a big deficit but couldn't quite go over the top. They got back in the win column by notching a 32-13 trouncing of the Waseca High School Bluejays.

The last dual meet of the year saw Albert Lea wind up its season with a 23-15 win over the Faribault Falcons. The only sore spot in the meet was Bob Hendrickson's first loss after 13 straight victories. Lewis Kennedy ended the season unbeaten, with only a tie to mar his otherwise perfect record. Tom Brooke finished 7-3.

Competing in the district meet held in Austin, the Tiger grapplers garnered first place by winning six first place berths, four seconds and two thirds. Allan Stolze, Bob Hendrickson, Lewis Kennedy, Dennis Breamer, Ed Hoeve and Tom Brooke were champions of their classes.

Action in the regional finals at Winona saw the Tigers win second place behind Owatonna, with Bob Hendrickson, Lewis Kennedy and Tom Brooke winning championships. Allan Stolze and Ed Hoeve captured second place, and Dennis Breamer wrestled to the consolation championship. The Tiger wrestlers finished with 55 points.

In the state wrestling meet held at Mankato State College, all three Tiger grapplers were defeated in the first round. Brooke won the consolation title, Hendrickson was second in the consolation fight and Kennedy failed to place. The team placed eighteenth.

WATCHING THE TEAM PRACTICE, Co-captain Tom Brooke, Coach Paul Ehrhard and Co-captain Don Blood seem to like what they see.

B Squad Compiles 6-3-2 Record

Coach Robert Dreisbach's fighting Baby Bengals took their cue from their varsity counterparts and improved on their record of a year ago. On the season they compiled a six win, three loss and two tie record.

The first match of the season found Owatonna running away from the "Bees" 46-8. Inexperience proved to be a major factor against them. They fared much better in the match with Mankato with a 26-26 tie.

Completely turning the tables, the Bengals scored a 41-13 victory over Stewartville in a non-conference match. Then they took on the Hayfield varsity and whipped them, 48-10, to improve their record to 2-1-1.

Next came a hard-fought 22-22 tie with the rugged Northfield B squad. Putting them back in the win column, the Bengals eased by Winona 28-24 in another close contest. Following this was a very close match with the Rochester B squad at Rochester, which found the Bengals winning on a tight 26-24 count.

Keeping the win streak alive, they whipped the Waseca Farm School 39-13. Just as the varsity had its string broken, the Bengals lost to Austin's B squad 27-16. They got back on the win side with a win over Waseca High School, winning 31-16.

By dropping a 26-21 decision to Faribault in the last dual meet of the season, the Bengals finished out the campaign with a respectable 6-3-2 record.

VETERANS ROG VILLARREAL AND RON JACOBSEN, paying no heed to the school traffic problem, get in some cold weather practice.

The 1957 track season turned out to be a building year for the young Tiger track squad. Captain John Nesheim led the way by being a consistent point getter.

First experience for the thinclads came in the form of the Alden team in a practice meet. There were three double winners in the meet, Nesheim, Roger Villarreal and Dave Palmer.

Against Austin the team did not fare so well as they lost 72-37. Albert Lea got its share of firsts, but they could not gain more than one place in any of the events.

Nesheim got all of his team's points with a third in the 440 yard dash at the Carleton Relays. Albert Lea finished 13th. In the Faribault Relays Nesheim again garnered his team's only points as the Tigers placed 24th.

A dual meet was scheduled with the Fairmont team, but it was cancelled because of rain. In the district meet held at Austin, the Tigers came in second behind host Austin. Nesheim, Villarreal, Ron Dahlen, Phil Henry, Palmer and Ken Johnson won trips to the regional meet held at Owatonna.

Albert Lea fell to eighth place in the Big Nine Meet with only three men placing. At the regional the Tigers came in 13th, as Nesheim won a trip to the state meet.

Five seniors and a junior paced the Tiger tennis squad to a four win, one loss record in dual competition. The top six netmen, in order of rank, were Captain John Wedge, Tom Allen, Garry Blunt, Dale Sorenson, Ronald Hagen and Gary Myran.

Mankato became the Tigers' first victim when the local netmen thoroughly trounced the Scarlets 8-1. Under the coaching of Bob Riege, the Tigers continued their fine play in downing Blue Earth 7-0.

Next in line was Owatonna, whom the Tigers easily defeated by a 6-1 score. The Riegemen won their fourth straight meet of the year by nipping a tough Fairmont team 6-5. In their final dual meet of the year, the Tigers were downed by the netmen from St. Peter 6-3.

Traveling to Austin for the district tournament, the Tigers were defeated early as the number one and two singles matches were lost as well as the doubles match. In the Big Nine Meet on May 31, the Tigers settled for a third place finish after many close matches.

This year the Riegemen had a rather inexperienced team with Gary Myran, Bob Goldman, Dick Cashman and Dick Anderson being the only returning veterans. Gary Myran was the only netman who had one of the top six positions last year.

HOPE FOR THE FUTURE is represented in these three young netmen who were all mainstays on the squad this year.

Albert Lea's 1958 golf team faced one of its most difficult schedules in recent years. All in all the Tigers played nine matches, not including regional, state, Big Nine and invitational meets.

Opening the Tigers' season, April 22, was a match with Waseca on their course. The course, a tricky par 36, offered a stern opening test for the linksters.

On April 25 the golf team traveled to Mankato to face the Scarlets. Year after year the Scarlets have had one of the best teams in the Big Nine. This year was no exception, although the Scarlets were hurt by the loss of two key players due to graduation.

April 29 found the golfers invading Austin for the first round of District 2 competition. Austin, last year's Big Nine champion, had three lettermen from last year's team plus a host of B squaders.

Other teams that appeared on the Tigers slate were Northfield, Owatonna, Faribault and Fairmont. The linksters also had return matches with Austin and Waseca. The Austin match decided the district. On May 29 the Tigers traveled to Faribault for the Big Nine Meet.

"KEEP THAT HAND OVER," says Coach Bill Standly to Dick Jones, promising young seventh grader. Dick Davis, another seventh grader, looks on.

Season's record—3 wins, 2 losses, 1 tie.

In his first year at Albert Lea, Coach Bill Standly led his linksters to a three won, two lost and one tied record. Although the Tigers dropped the District Two title to Austin, many Tigers gained valuable experience for future years. Fred Jones shared co-medalist honors with Tom Kezar of Austin, thus enabling him to go to Rochester to compete in the regional tournament.

At the regional Jones picked off third place plus a trip to the state meet in St. Paul. Jones ran into some putting difficulties but still managed to take the tenth spot in a field of 48.

Albert Lea, for the second straight year, was the bridesmaid in the Big Nine Tournament. The meet, held on the long Austin Country Club, was undecided until the finish. Tiger captain, Hank Van Wier, carded a 35, two under par, on his last round to place the Tiger golfers right in the middle of the title picture. Albert Lea needed a 44 from its number three man Clair Friday to wrap up the title, but Friday ran into difficulties out on the course and carded a 50 on his last nine. The Tigers did manage medalist honors, however, as Jones led all participants by recording a five over par 114 for the 27 holes played. The field included 45 players.

BOB KAUFMANN, senior pitcher on the 1958 baseball squad, is shown warming up with Ed Hoeve, as Dave Valdahl checks his control early in the season.

The Tiger's baseball squad completed their second season in full competition as they rolled to an improved 2-3 record coached by Ralph Summers.

Co-captains of the 1957 squad were Paul Hove and Ronnie Mathews. These two boys provided not only capable leadership but also contributed highly with their offensive and defensive plays.

The diamond-men started their season by losing to Austin, Mankato and Owatonna. The lack of strong hitters in the lineup showed as they couldn't get enough hits to pull the three games out. A leaky defense also was apparent during many games.

After this the team rolled back and gained two successive victories over Freeborn and Alden. In the Freeborn game the boys finally got a few hits and won 4-2. Meeting Alden in the first game of the district tournament, the Tigers won 5-1. Aaron Parkhurst, the mainstay on the mound all year, threw a four hitter for the win, as the rest of the team played fine ball.

In the final game of the year the diamond-men met a strong Austin team in the finals of the district tournament and won the game, 8-3.

The 1958 season wasn't too bright as the Tigers only have five returning lettermen. They were Bob Kaufmann, LaMar Johnson, Dave Valdahl, Harry Christianson and Tom Osmundson.

THIRD ROW: Herman, Hoyne, Dehan, Skoloda, Boer, Dennis Olson, Johnson, Valdahl.

Paul Nesheim's strong team rolled to an undefeated 8-0 record for the season in the annual intramural football program. Jerry Hatch's group finished in the runner-up position with a 4-3-1 record. Dave Valdahl's team followed with 3-4-1, and Bob Johnson's 0-8 mark.

Nesheim's team used a big front line, a stout defense and a fine passing attack to gain the crown. Nesheim and Fred Jones were the offensive leaders of the team as they completed many a pass for important gains. The defensive line was headed by Gary Myran, Bob Kopischke and John Jordahl as they held the opposing teams to an average of 12 points per game.

Hatch's team was led by Hatch and Jim Peterson on the offense and Larry Sterns and Gary Sleeper on defense throughout their games.

Valdahl, Bill Svendson and Bob Hendrickson led Valdahl's group. They combined a well fashioned running attack along with a sparkling aerial game.

Johnson's team was the hard luck bunch in the league as they were constantly being defeated.

Director Ralph Summers arranged a post-season game for Nesheim's championship team against a faculty team. The teachers handed the champs their first defeat 30-18.

Nesheim, Krieger Capture Crown

Under the capable direction of Ralph Summers, the intramural basketball program completed another successful year. Jim Krieger led his tall, high scoring quintet to the league crown, defeating Gordie Larson's five in the championship playoffs.

The champions rolled through the schedule with only one defeat, that coming at the hands of the Larson gang early in the year. Larson finished second, followed by Bob Hershey, Mike Gaetze, Ron Radke and Hollandale.

In the playoffs following the windup of the regular season, Krieger downed Hollandale in the first round, while Larson slipped past Hershey. In the finals Krieger knocked off Larson's quintet to gain the championship.

Krieger's team combined a well balanced scoring attack, paced by Dave Valdahl and LaMar Johnson. The rebounding was capably handled by Krieger and Don Tasker. The edge they had shows up in the individual statistics, as they had three men in the top five scorers.

Jack Moore was the overall scoring champ as he hit for 195 points in 12 games. Johnson trailed him by hitting for 160, while Valdahl finished third with 153. Olson and Tasker finished fourth and fifth with 130 and 110 points, respectively.

Krieger also led in the team statistics department as they finished with a 48.5 average per game. They held their opponents to an average of 29.4 per try.

Gathering at Edgewater Park September 25 for a picnic and sponsoring a dance, the "Foot-Ball", were the events in which the Girls Athletic Association took part in addition to the regular tournaments. Members and their adviser, Mrs. Joan Van Beek, participated in games with other girls at the annual Big Nine Playday held in Austin on November 9.

To encourage only the interested, a new ruling was adopted. A member could choose the sport or sports she wished to join and attend only those meetings. Two meetings were the maximum number a member could miss during a tournament without forfeiting membership. All sports were played under this ruling.

BASKETBALL CAPTAINS Eleanor Perau, Sharon Vermedal, Janice Johnson and Darleen Olson all want a winning hand on the ball.

The four teams of Kathy Olson, Janice Bok, Sharon Hanson and Betty Kofstad battled for the championship in the volleyball tournaments, but the final victory went to Kathy Olson's team, undefeated in tournament play.

Along with the deep snow and the new year came the popular basketball season. Captains were Eleanor Perau, Janice Johnson, Sharon Vermedal and Darleen Olson. Winning the tournament was Janice Johnson's team.

Recreational games of ping-pong and shuffle board and the spring sports were also played.

EXECUTIVE DUTIES OF GAA were efficiently executed by Eleanor Perau, president; Mrs. Joan Van Beek, adviser; Annis Hylbak, secretary-treasurer and Nancy Kinsley, vice president.

"HEY GALS HURRY UP!" shouts Charlotte Hagen, peeking through the door at Marcia Uttley, Kathy Olson and Rosemary Goette. "We've got a ballgame to play."

Charlotte Hagen, JoAnn Goldman, Karen Peterson, Nancy Allen and Janice Bok, B squad cheerleaders, led the Baby Bengals on to victory in the respective sports, and displayed promising qualifications which may well place them on the 1959 A squad.

Both A and B squad cheerleaders were faithful to the Thursday night practice sessions. Dual practice sessions not only helped improve the co-ordination of A cheerleaders, but it did much to prepare the B squad for A squad competition.

Pep Club assisted the cheerleaders with pep assemblies by presenting a skit before the January 31 Austin game. Many new yells were introduced to the student body.

On March 13, practice sessions began for all those who would be interested in trying out for cheerleading. These practice sessions were designed to acquaint girls with the school songs and yells. Next year may find more than five A squad cheerleaders working together in representing our school.

"LET IT SNOW, Let it snow!" is the feeling of the B Squad cheerleaders. Nancy Allen, Karen Peterson, Charlotte Hagen, JoAnn Goldman and Janice Bok enjoy the wonderful winter weather.

Junior GAA Attains New Adviser

Junior High GAA started out their sports season by playing softball and sponsoring a picnic at Edgewater.

Getting into the Halloween spirit, the GAA held a costume party instead of their regular Tuesday night meeting. The girls brought food and played games.

Miss Norma Robson, new junior high physical education instructor, also acted as GAA adviser. All the year's activities were carried out under her direction. The new year was started off by organizing softball tournaments. Officers chosen were Sandra Hanson, president; Karen Hill, vice president; Myreen Gavle, secretary and Martha Sherman, treasurer. The officers displayed amiable talent in executing their duties.

At the end of the softball season, GAA retired to the indoors to engage in basketball, volleyball, ping pong, shuffleboard and co-recreational games.

WHILE SANDRA HANSON TRIES to figure out which button turns the phonograph on, officers Myreen Gavle, Karen Hills, Martha Sherman and Adviser Norma Robson select records to play for the Christmas party given by the club.

"HOW DO YOU SUPPOSE Dianne Knutson will ever get that ball way up there!" questions Mary Skophammer, Vicki Nelson, Susan Goldman and Ruth Gilbertson in amusement.

"HEY, WHERE DID THAT BALL GO?" exclaims Judy A. Hanson after Marlene Johnson tipped it out of her reach. Unidentified teammates are prepared to retrieve the loose ball.

Pep Club Organizes, Helps Spirit

SHOWING THEIR rhythmic talent at the new game, lemmy sticks, are Bonnie Johnston, Karen Peters, Darlene Moen, Martha Wayne.

After a lapse of nearly two decades, once again students formed a Pep Club to promote school spirit. Pep Club was directly affiliated with the cheerleaders and under the supervision of Mrs. Joan Van Beek, girls' physical education teacher. Projects included selling Tiger pins and beanies. Members strived to attend all home and out of town sporting events.

Meetings were held every first and third Tuesday of each month with Elaine Jenson, president; Carol Oppegard, vice president; Lorraine Jenson, secretary and Darleen Olson, treasurer, providing the backbone.

Physical education in Albert Lea Senior High was offered in only the sophomore curriculum. A varied program of soccer, square dancing, volleyball, basketball, modern dance and softball was introduced.

Junior High Girls' Gym Department acquired a new instructor, Miss Norma Robson, who is a graduate of Iowa State University. The program for the year was similar to that planned for Senior High.

"I'LL GET IT." It looks as if all the girls want to get the basketball, but it seems to have gotten away from all three of them.

"IT LOOKS LIKE A STRIKE," exclaims Lenore Holt as Elaine Nelson shows good form during team bowling competition.

Rochester Hosts ALHS Bowlers

"HAS SHE REALLY FAINTED?" inquires Bonnie Montei, as Mary Kelly and Carol Oppegard carry Mary Walker out on a stretcher.

Bowling enthusiasts met every Tuesday night at the ABC Bowling Lanes to receive instructions on bowling techniques and pointers on how to raise their averages.

Saturday, November 30, eighteen girls reported to the alley for special instruction from Miss Marie Bidney, bowling instructor from Owatonna. Showing much interest in the girls, Mrs. Fran Ashcroft of Albert Lea, offered her help every week and lent a helping hand to those girls confronted with handicaps.

Officers for the year were Carol Oppegard, president; Darleen Olson, vice president and Sharon Vermedal, secretary-treasurer. Team captains were Sharon Hanson, Garnice Christenson, Marlene Hunnicutt, Margaret Neilson and Elaine Nelson.

On April 12 several teams consisting of five girls each journeyed to Rochester to take part in the American Junior Bowling Congress state-wide tournaments.

An afternoon of fun was held when individual tournaments and doubles were tried by the female bowlers.

POINTING OUT a very important blood vessel Carol Oppegard informs Bonnie Montei, Mary Walker and Mary Kay Kelly about the various parts of the circulatory system.

Features

Features or highlights enhanced the year greatly for all the members of the school. Not only were these events fun, but they also provided a valuable place for getting to know fellow students and to obtain the team spirit.

Homecoming was a time not only for the crowning of a beautiful and popular queen, but also a time to be proud in being a member of such a fine school. All too often in the excitement of the coronation, parade and ensuing dance, the fundamental purpose of the event was forgotten. This purpose was the game itself. Students cannot forget the game, for this should be the highlight of the activities.

Tigers' Roar was another valuable experience in which students participated. This annual student production gave individuals a chance to display their talent and to work as a member of a group for the betterment of the school. This was a production entirely by the students, but the participants were not the only important people. The audience containing many students must show an active interest and support the endeavors of the cast and production staff.

Drama afforded the students another opportunity to participate in a highlight of the year. Many long hours were spent on each production before it was presented. Almost every phase of high school life was rewarded and the year 1957-58 proved a truly memorable one for all.

Sally Olsen Proclaimed as Queen

As stirring strains of "La Czarine" were heralded by the chorus, the curtains swung open to reveal Sally Olsen as honored queen of the 1957 Homecoming Festivities. Loud cries of approval rang forth as she was presented to the exuberant audience by Student Council President, Paul Nesheim.

After introduction of the attendants, pledges were made by court members. Queen Sally presented herself for the oath, after which Elizabeth Johnsrud sang.

Sally's activities included Hi-Teens, A Chorus, Band, French Club, Youth Council, Madrigal and Lion and Kiwanis Representatives.

HONORED HOMECOMING QUEEN SALLY OLSEN is surrounded by her royal court. Attendants who pledged their loyalty included: Marilyn Stevens, Barbara Lee, Susan LeBeau, Phyllis Gunderson, Karen Jorgenson and Anne Esse. Danny Bill Iverson was crown bearer for this momentous ceremony.

MAKING LAST MINUTE PREPARATIONS for the coronation are the speakers who pledged their most loyal support to the newly elected queen: Bryan Neel, music; Peter Hoffman, clubs and organizations;

Fred Jones, athletics; Merald Nesje, drama and Paul Nesheim, master of ceremonies.

School Spirit Reigns Over Activities

THIS PRIZE-WINNING CLASS FLOAT demonstrated the cooperation and effort of the students which helped to create a successful parade.

Gaily decorated floats, seven beautiful queen candidates riding in convertibles and excited throngs of loyal onlookers made perfect the 1958 Homecoming Parade and bonfire festivities.

Michael Gaetze acted as general chairman of the parade while Carol Pickavance secured the trucks that were needed for the occasion. This year students constructed decorative floats portraying the slogan "Can the Birds." Each year a prize is given for the best slogan.

Cooperation and effort shone forth on the night of October 9 as the parade moved down Broadway. Judges from the Chamber of Commerce selected winning floats on the basis of originality, artistic skills and the ability to enact the slogan. Prizes of money were given to organizations or homerooms having the best entries.

Because of increased enrollment seven queen candidates were chosen instead of the usual five. These beauties lent much to the spirit of the Homecoming Festivities, as they participated in the many events.

Giving an added touch to the parade were the Junior and Senior High Bands as they played familiar marches and performed various formations. The cheerleaders also displayed their talent on a float, cheering to the school songs and some new yells.

The snake dance was not put into effect this year, but both spectators and students moved to Morin Park for the traditional bonfire. School yells were led by the cheerleaders, and the candidates and team were presented to the cheering crowd. Bob Kaufmann and Jerry Qualley were responsible for the materials for the bonfire.

AN AURA OF MYSTERY REIGNED SUPREME as an excited throng of Tiger fans cheered the team on to victory at the traditional bonfire.

"A" SQUAD FOOTBALL MEMBERS cheer their team on to victory as they exhibit good sportsmanship and skill in the gridiron battle with Red Wing. Team members, as well as students and faculty, prepared weeks in advance in order to make the 1957 Homecoming more successful.

Climaxing the 1957 Homecoming Festivities was the coronation and gridiron battle October 11. Brightly decorated cherry and blue goal posts lent their brilliance to the anxiously awaited Tiger encounter with the Wing-ers. Gay cherry and blue pom-poms also lent cheer.

Senior Band performed during the game half-time, rendering such selections as "When You Wish Upon a Star," "Hello Young Lovers," and "The Red Wing Song." Also demonstrating varied march formations, the band formed the letters "RW" and "AL," a half-moon, and a large star. As the band formed a large heart, "La Czarine" was played and the Queen and her attendants were presented to the cheering crowd. Float construction for the seven beauties was under supervision of Peter Hoffman and his committee.

To complete this perfect day, the traditional Homecoming Dance was held. Through the untiring effort of chairmen Evelyn Wood, Mary Walker and Barbara Jenner, this event was open to students and alumni.

Beautifully blended autumn colors enclosed the gym in a fantasy-like wonderland as excited dancegoers whirled to the music of Spike Haskell's Band. A velvet covered throne added royalty to the scene, while small orange-colored footballs bearing the names of the players acted as a reminder of the night's game. The queen and her attendants were presented during a snow-ball.

Only memories of this night remain, but students, faculty and alumni alike remember with happiness the 1957 Homecoming.

BESTOWING THE HONOR of a dance upon anxious co-captains Vic Gilbertson and Earl Ashpole is Queen Sally Olsen.

DEPICTING THE GODS AND GODDESSES of Greek mythology, the cultural history class produced their first Homecoming float.

Masquers Enact

To begin another successful year of dramatics, the Senior High Drama Club presented "Father of the Bride," a delightful comedy written by Edward Streeter. Miss Hildred Tennihill, adviser and director, cast the roles.

Kay Banks, the bride, who was played by Janet Gurwell, announced to her family that she and her steady boyfriend Buckley, alternately enacted by Jerry Hatch and Mark Knutson, had decided to get married.

Buckley's old fashioned plans concerning the wedding ceremony caused a difference of opinion in the Bank's household. Judith Myers as Mrs. Banks protested to his plans declaring that Kay deserved a more appropriate ceremony than a country ceremony with only a few witnesses. Mr. Banks, portrayed by Merald Nesje, wholeheartedly agreed with Buckley's plans, much to the distress of Kay and Mrs. Banks.

Robert Gunderson gave a commendable portrayal of Kay's brother, who sympathized with her when the youngest of the Banks, Tommy who was played by William Lloyd, cast a teasing tongue. Buzz, Tommy's crony and fellow comforter, was characterized by Jay Vollum.

REUNITED AFTER A PRE-NUPTIAL argument are Janet Gurwell as Kay Banks and Mark Knutson as Buckley.

LIVELY CONVERSATION and good humored joking are regular commodities in the Bank's household. Merald Nesje as the father, Robert Gunderson as Ben, William Lloyd as Tommy and Judy Myers as Mrs. Banks enjoy the pleasant atmosphere.

GRACEFULLY WALTZING with the moving man, Bryan Neel, is the Bank's maid, Marian Vietor.

POSING WILLINGLY for a wedding picture are Kay's friends, Mary E. Blunt, Bonnie Monte, Carol Gilpin, Barbara Ives, Steven Moore, Janet Gorder and Karen Platt.

Comedy, Mystery

An all male cast, a judge's bench and a chair set the scene for "Caine Mutiny Court-Martial, a two act drama written by Herman Wouk and directed by Miss Hildred Tennihill.

The scene opens to reveal Lieutenant Steven Maryk, portrayed by Paul Johnson, in the process of being questioned by his defense attorney Lieutenant Barney Greenwald, played by Vernon Mielke. Maryk was accused of relieving Lieutenant Commander Phillip Queeg, enacted by Robert Gunderson, while the crew was battling a harrowing typhoon, insisting that Queeg was psychopathic at the time of crisis.

As the courtmartial unfolds, Queeg's character flaws are revealed by Greenwald together with the fact that Lieutenant Thomas Keefer, played by Robert Ullman, had convinced Maryk to take command of the ship on the grounds that Queeg was mentally unfit to command.

DRINKING A TOAST are officers and judges, Gary Sleeper, Victor Gilbertson, Thomas Brooke, Vernon Mielke, Paul Johnson and Robert Ullman.

QUESTIONING THE DEFENDANT, Robert Gunderson, are fellow officers and shipmates, Merald Nesje, Richard Lee and Richard Stadheim.

LISTENING INTENTLY to the witnesses are judges: Robert Goldman, Lowell Peterson, Charles Gulbrandson, Sydney Schwartz, William Svendsen, Donald Tasker, John Jordahl, Alton Bushman and Jay Vollum.

WITH A SIGH OF RELIEF members of the Tiger's Roar production staff congratulated each other on a job well done. They are David Olson, lighting; Merald Nesje, stage; Judy Myers, tryouts; John Jordahl, stage; Janet Christianson, art; Susan LeBeau, director; Alton Bushman, co-producer and Gordy Larson, lights. Those not pictured are Gary Myran, co-producer; and Carol Raimer, script writer.

Cheers from Audience Greet Cast

SHOWN EXECUTING AN INTRICATE and modern interpretive dance are Linda Offenbecker and Mary Shelgren, who were the junior high members of the Tiger's Roar cast.

"Bon Voyage" was the theme of the 1958 Tigers' Roar, which was held in the high school auditorium on January 24, 25 and 27. Curtains opened on a Parisian hotel scene, filled with a multitude of teen-age American Field Service students.

The students had just spent a happy summer with their foster families in the countries throughout the European and Asian continents and had been looking forward to this rendezvous ever since they left the ship.

It was to be their last happy memory before their long journey home. However, the teen-agers soon found themselves entangled in a chain of strange events.

Ronni Matthies, star performer, lost a dime in the coke machine and was determined to get it back. When he took a flashlight from his suitcase, his fellow travelers thought he must certainly be after a notorious criminal. Later, after frantically searching, he became so involved that he locked himself in the machine and created panic.

A TAPPING TRIO, consisting of Susan Voigt, Carol Boyd and Judy Palm, take a bow after performing.

OFFERING A BITE OF CANDY to Liz Johnsrud is Ronni Matthies. Julie Argue and Bill Hanson admire another star, the pink poodle.

DANCING THEIR WAY TO SLEEP to the tune of "Fancy Pants" was the chorus line consisting of Nancy Kinsley, Peggy O'Neal, Dianne Manthei, Maureen Haley, Sally Quiggle, Charlotte Wangen, Karen Jorgenson, Susan LeBeau, Judy Olson, Sally Olsen, Carol Pickavance, Bonnie Higgins, Marilyn Madson, Rosemary Donovan, Pat Hanson and Anne Esse. They were attired in attractive red and white costumes.

as Curtain Closes on 'Bon Voyage'

Julie Argue and Bill Hanson played the parts of a French man and woman who were searching for their "little pet." In the third act a tiny pink French poodle was discovered behind the registration desk.

Other important characters who did an outstanding job were Merald Nesje, a cynical pessimist, who felt the whole situation was useless, and Liz Johnsrud who was in a constant frenzy over Ronni's disappearance.

Woven through this plot were various acts of singing, dancing, baton twirling and pantomiming.

In the finale the entire cast blended their voices to their own rendition of the theme song, "Bon Voyage," which was cleverly written by Mr. Robert L. Myers.

Director of the 1958 "Roar" was Susan LeBeau, who was assisted by Mrs. Barb Verdoorn, faculty adviser; Mr. Nicholas Cords, musical adviser and committee heads.

THE OLD NEGRO SPIRITUAL "Jericho" was rendered by this saxophone quartet: Dave Jordahl, David H. Olson, Dale Olsen and Jim Blackburn.

DRESSED AS GERMAN EXCHANGE STUDENTS, Lois Johnson and Karen Hillstrom twirled their batons to the "Liechtensteiner Polka."

EXPERTLY REVEALING HIS SKILL on the violin is Bob Kaufmann as he intrigues the audience with "Jealously."

Winter Carnival Highlights Vacation

Judith Myers and Donald Tasker reminisce over the night's events after being chosen to reign over the annual Winter Carnival.

Combining the efforts of the Eagles' Club, Student Council, Youth Council, and the Recreational Department, the annual Winter Carnival was again put into effect. The recreation and dances that were scheduled took place during the two-week Christmas vacation.

Hockey, snow sculpting and skating races were held for elementary, junior high, and senior high students. David H. Olson and Steve Claybourn were held responsible for this year's races. Tobogganing was another of the carnival's activities, and seeing that all arrangements were made was the job of Pat Baker and her committee.

Jean Lunning and Jay Hutchins were crowned Prince and Princess of the Junior High. Their royal attendants included Judy Engbritson, Bill Harding, Carol Lee, Bill Danielsen, Karen Mathews and David Peterson.

The honor of King and Queen in the Senior High was bestowed upon Judy Myers and Don Tasker. Giving their support to the King and Queen of Snow were their attendants Rosemary Donovan, Thomas Wayne, Diane Paulson, Douglas Hill, Nancy Kinsley, Charles Gulbrandson, Elizabeth Johnsrud, Thomas Brooke, Charlotte Wangen and James Krieger.

A bouquet of red roses was presented to the queen and each of the attendants carried a single rose.

Royalty Featured at Heart Dance

RADIANT SMILES GREETED a cheering audience as Carol Bisgaard and Paul Johnson were crowned King and Queen of Hearts.

To raise funds for seven charity organizations, members of the Honor Society held their annual Have-a-Heart Drive February 3-11. Throughout the drive society members sold white, red and purple hearts valued at 25 cents, 50 cents, and one dollar, respectively. One ballot for the King and Queen of Hearts was obtained with each 25 cent donation. Ballots were received by guessing the identity of student profiles exhibited in the cafeteria.

Bryan Neel acted as master of ceremonies for the coronation of the King and Queen of Hearts, which took place during the dance intermission. After announcing LaDonna Hansen, Gerald Cox, Diane Paulson and Douglas Hill as royal attendants, Carol Bisgaard and Paul Johnson were proclaimed as king and queen. Judith Myers, Queen of Snows, and Sally Olsen, Homecoming Queen, crowned the royalty.

Another feature of the Have-a-Heart Dance was the beard-growing contest sponsored by the Student Council. Paul Nesheim, president, presented awards to Horst Hehr and Duane Harves, most original beards; Harold Christenson, bushiest beard; Peter Hoffman, toughest beard and Roger Berg, for the best crop of peach fuzz.

SHARING THE HONORS for the most original beards, Duane Harves and Horst Hehr look nonchalantly on as Peter Hoffman and Roger Berg discuss the awards in their divisions.

ADDING A SPARKLING NOTE to John Brown's Body was Bonnie Montei as she displayed intricate dance steps. Her poise and precision is graceful as she portrays the southern belle.

VERNON MIELKE, SHIRLEY JENSON AND ROBERT ULLMAN are the three main narrators each portraying definite characters in the epic. By doing this they tell the story of an ordeal without heroics or sanctimoniousness.

Epic Poem Involves New Experiences

Speech department added a new feature, a 60 voice speech choir. Their first public appearance was May 6, when they presented Stephen Vincent Benet's Civil War epic, "John Brown's Body."

This epic is a huge and yet profoundly intimate narrative of the Civil War told in poetic diction and imagery with a realization that is vivid, stirring and brilliant.

There was no attempt at period costumes or at scenery. The Madrigal singers added to the drama by conjuring the mood of the 1800's with timely songs.

Vernon Mielke, Shirley Jenson and Robert Ullman shared honors as narrators. Each one of them had a definite character to portray. This epic contained many individual scenes such as Lincoln's anguished soliloquy in the White House, the Battle of Gettysburg and the exchange of prisoners between the Rebs and the Yanks.

But over and above these individual scenes is the fierce and human and exalted spirit of the whole. The Civil War was not an isolated incident in American History but a wilderness in the heart of America—savage and desperate on both sides but also an expression of pride and conviction.

THE SPEECH CHOIR COMPOSED of 50 students from the speech class have an important part in the drama. Even without costumes these students contribute to the epic. They form the background and set the mood with their small singing and speaking parts. The Madrigal Singers also blended their voices with the choristers for a successful performance.

Speech Enthusiasts Attend Festival

DILIGENTLY REHEARSING her original oration is Janet Gurwell as Lowell Peterson and Ronald Matthies listen.

JUDITH NANNESTAD is willingly demonstrating her after-dinner speech to panel members, Carol Aanerud, Richard Stadheim, Karen Jacobson and Robert Ullman.

Highlighting Albert Lea's participation in the speech festival held in Winona was the speech choir's interpretation of "John Brown's Body," which earned them a superior rating from the judges' standpoint.

Richard Stadheim, Karen Jacobson and Carol Aanerud received superior ratings on their panel discussion of Minnesota's Tax Program. Jay Vollum, Carol Gilpin and Lois S. Jensen got excellent and Robert Hoffman, Janet Hurst and Bonnie DeVries received very good. On debate Robert Ullman and Cortland Smith rated superior and Dorothy Stevens and William Svendsen earned excellent ratings.

In the pantomime department Lowell Peterson received a superior on his pantomime, "Seminar Student on a Date" while Barbara Verdoorn and Arlene Miller earned excellents on their readings. Judith Nannestad rated excellent on her humorous after-dinner speech.

On their original oratories both Janet Gurwell and Rose Schumacher came home with excellent ratings.

Representing Albert Lea in extemporaneous speaking was Betty Kofstad, who received a rating of very good, and Ronald Matthies earned an excellent.

DEBATING THE SUBJECT are members of the debate team, William Svendsen, Dorothy Stevens, Cortland Smith and Robert Ullman.

"WE'VE GOT THEM by any means," says Julie Argue, Vera Kirk and Marilyn Madson who have their men, Robert Ullman and Horst Hehr.

These boys don't look very willing to have marriage licenses bought for them, but the girls are proud of their catches.

Tradition Says, Girls Must Pay

Sadie Hawkins began at noon with girls receiving tags with which they could tag any boy. Because the boys were suddenly sporting "no hunting" signs, unusual tactics were used to catch them.

After being tagged, the girls had to drag their catch down to the bookroom to buy a marriage license, which was their admittance to the dance that evening.

Comic strips from papers lined the walls, corn covered the floor and tattered streamers hung from the ceiling. Appropriate costumes were worn.

January 24 to 31 proved a week of hectic work for girls and a heaven for boys as TWIRP week advanced in full swing. Carrying boys' books, opening doors and paying for all were a few of the duties for girls.

To end festivities, a dance was held and several students on the Black List appeared before Kangaroo Court.

KANGAROO COURT proved fatal as one of the "lawyers" gave a whip cream punishment to a defendant.

"AIN'T I LUCKY," exclaims Audrey Stevens as she hangs on tightly to her two menfolk, Michael Flanagan and Larry Stern, victims of Sadie Hawkins.

GATHERING AT THE CAPITOL, the students had the privilege of meeting with Senator Edward Thyne and Representative Albert Quie from Minnesota, who are pictured above. Students were free to visit the Congressmen in their offices whenever it was possible.

Seniors Observe Nation's Capital

After many hours of orientation meetings, committee meetings and other preliminary work, 67 students from Freeborn County were ready to board the Burlington Zephyr enroute to New York and Washington on the annual "Know Your Government Seminar," which was held March 26 through April 7.

The students became better acquainted with the Senate and House in action, while visiting Washington. Several sightseeing tours were also included in the Washington program. The White House, Lincoln Memorial, Washington Monument, Arlington Cemetery, Mount Vernon and other famous landmarks were seen by many for the first time.

After Washington came New York. While in New York, the participants toured the United Nations Building. Broadway plays, Radio City and various museums were visited and, of course, the group took field trips to the Statue of Liberty, Empire State Building and many other fascinating places in New York. Various foreign restaurants were visited by students as they divided up into their groups.

NOTEBOOKS AND PENS IN HAND was a familiar scene at all the meetings as taking notes was essential to remember all the information to bring back.

TAKING A BREATHER from the busy schedule in New York, Seminar students found the curb a welcome sight.

ENERGETIC JUNIORS work hard as they finish the decorations for the prom.

Creative Juniors Reveal

From September to May enthusiastic juniors planned the annual prom. A dance was sponsored by the junior class and the remaining money was financed by class dues.

On the long awaited May 10, Junior-Senior Promgoers entered a beautiful flower garden in the cafeteria where excited couples ate buffet style. Small tables were set throughout the room. Strains of mood music could be heard setting the atmosphere for the coming evening. Due to lack of funds, a buffet was served instead of the usual banquet. Couples were free to come and go at their own convenience.

The traditional promenade usually held in the halls from the cafeteria to the gym was changed to a walk around Central Park. It continued to the boys' gym where the grand march began a wonderful evening of dancing. Many parents and interested people were on hand to watch the promenade and see the boys dressed in white dinner jackets and girls in pastel formals.

Flower gardens, rivers, mills, brick garden walls and the sweet aroma of fresh flowers held everyone captive as the theme "Song of the South" was carried out.

From an old plantation porch, Guy DeLeo's Orchestra could be heard keeping everyone in a dreamy mood. A flower garden surrounded an oaken well where four sophomore girls dipped punch for thirsty promgoers.

PUTTING UP MURALS, Annis Hylbak and Janice Johnson receive assistance from Howard Sorenson, David Olson and Jerry Cox.

DAVID OLSON gives directions to Carol Bisgaard and Merald Nesje as they put final details on the band stand.

"ANYBODY COMING?" asks John Jordahl as he peers around the corner hoping no one sees him as he begins to get ready for the prom.

Plantation in 'Song of the South'

Providing entertainment were the Key Notes, composed of Bonnie Stephenson, Carol Bisgaard, Sonia Syverson and Diane Paulson, who sang "By the Light of the Silvery Moon." Elizabeth Johnsrud and Duane Harves sang "Friendly Persuasion," adding a romantic touch.

The outside court was transformed into a flowery garden where promgoers could rest in the coolness of the evening and have a tete-a-tete.

Light-hearted guys and gals left the dancing to begin the merry whirl of gay parties until the wee hours of the morning. Weary parents prepared huge quantities of food which were quickly consumed. Many sleepy-eyed couples ended the festivities with a huge breakfast.

Only memories are left, but all agreed the 1957 prom was an unforgettable event that will be cherished always.

In charge of the prom were the chairmen: Anne Esse, Caroline Villarreal, Marilyn Stevens, Arvis Loge, Betty Kofstad, Karen Hillstrom, Virginia Tennyson, Karen Jorgenson, LaDonna Hanson, Carol Bisgaard, Janice Johnson, Annis Hylbak, Duane Harves, Peter Hoffman, Susan LeBeau, Gordon Larson, David Olson, Merald Nesje and Paul Nesheim.

Supervisors were junior teachers Mr. Wallace Kennedy and Mr. Nicholas Cords and the junior counselors.

FINDING IT HARD TO STAY awake at an early sunrise breakfast are weary promgoers Judy Myers and Donald Tasker. Diane Paulson and

A New World

This is the world we are entering.

Success is our goal.

An unknown author once said:

A man is a success who:
Works hard
Loves much
Prays often
Has won the respect of older men
And the love of young children.

All of these factors have been offered to us as students in our American high schools.

To work hard one must have knowledge—to experience that feeling of self-contentment that comes only from a hard day's work. There is no feeling to one who wastes his hours away.

To love much—to be able to work in peace with your neighbor. To insure your children and their children a tranquil world.

To pray often—for one hour each week, all students departed to attend his own church. The fact that we were all of different denominations did not make a difference; the important thing was that given the opportunity, most students gratefully acknowledged this weekly interim.

To gain the respect of older men and the love of young children depends on one's ability to master and conquer the previous qualities listed—hard work, much love and to offer prayer.

Yes, this is our goal.
